Labor Rackets Probe Witness Afraid To Talk

Ex-Union Employee Tells Of Hearing Uncomplimentary Talk About Riesel

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—An attractive brunette testified today she was afraid "something might happen" if she told all she knew about a New York labor union under Senate investigation.

The faltering testimony came from Mrs. Geraldine Taylor of Bayonne, N. J., a former office worker for Local 227 of the Allied Industrial Workers of America.

"Are you frightened?" she was asked by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, which is looking into alleged labor racketeering.

"Yes," Mrs. Taylor replied.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) inquired whether she feared that, because of "your knowledge of the operation . . . something might happen if you were completely frank?"

"Yes," Mrs. Taylor murmured, her head deeply bowed. "Maybe it's just myself. . . . It's just talk. . . . I don't want to incriminate anybody . . ." her voice trailed off.

McClellan Serves Notice

Earlier in the hearing McClellan put the International Brotherhood of Teamsters on notice to state whether it is encouraging witnesses "to hide and conceal facts" sought in the investigation.

He said he would expect an answer tomorrow from Einar O. Mohn, an international vice president of the teamsters union.

Mrs. Taylor testified she heard some uncomplimentary talk around Local 227 about Victor Riesel, a crusading labor columnist blinded in an acid-throwing incident last year. But she said she couldn't definitely state she heard any threats against Riesel.

The witness also told the senators that Arthur Santa Maria, secretary-treasurer of Local 227, had instructed her to leave New York at a time when the district attorney's office was seeking her testimony in a probe of the union's affairs.

Union Lawyer Concurred

She said Leon Reich, the union's lawyer, concurred in the decision that she should go to her home in New Jersey while the investigation was on.

Reich is attending the hearing as counsel for several union officials who have refused to testify on grounds of possible self-incrimination. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said he wanted to take up in executive session the question of whether Reich should be permitted to continue to represent witnesses.

Stassen Hits Telegrams As "Fraudulent"

Wires Sent To GOP Leaders Supported Alcorn As Chairman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Telegrams urging Republican leaders to keep the country "safe from the Nixons and Knowlands" turned up today under Harold E. Stassen's name, but he quickly labeled them "fraudulent."

The wires called for the election of Meade Alcorn of Connecticut to succeed Leonard Hall as GOP national chairman.

They were considered more likely to have a "kiss of death" effect, if any effect at all, on Alcorn's chances for the post, heretofore rated excellent.

Stassen's name is anathema in some Republican quarters as a result of his aborted attempt last summer to knock Vice President Nixon off the GOP ticket. Anything he supported would automatically tempt fire from those quarters.

First Disclosed By Reece

The telegrams, sent from Stamford, Conn., were first disclosed by Rep. B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee, a Republican committee member and former chairman.

Reece, known as a "Taft Republican" like Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California, told reporters the telegram he received was marked "confidential."

Stassen, at the United Nations in New York as President Eisenhower's disarmament assistant, said:

"I have sent no telegram. I have authorized no telegram. This is a false and fraudulent telegram and I am starting an immediate investigation to find out who is responsible for putting my name on it."

Sender Gave Md. Address

Federal law makes no provision for punishing perpetrators of hoax telegrams, as long as no money fraud is involved.

In New York, a Western Union spokesman said two men entered the Stamford office just before it closed at midnight Wednesday. A girl operator was the only one on duty.

One of the men filed 44 night letters, all with the signature Harold E. Stassen. He repeated several times to the operator that his name was not to be confused with any other Harold Stassen but should be signed specifically Harold E. Stassen.

Western Union said he gave a Chevy Chase, Md., address.

Operator Found Guilty Of Topsy Trolley Driving

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17 (AP)—A Municipal Court jury found motorman George W. Latta, 48, guilty yesterday of drunken streetcar driving.

Arthur L. Miller complained Latta's streetcar bumped the rear of his car, backed up and bumped it again. When it happened a third time, Miller said, he called the cops.

They arrested Latta, who demanded a jury trial. Judge Byron Arnold set Feb. 14 for a hearing on Latta's motion for probation.

The collisions occurred three months ago. Buses have since replaced street cars on that line.

Congress Asked To Restore Lee's Full Civil Rights

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Congress was asked today to restore full civil rights and citizenship to Robert E. Lee.

A bill by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) would commemorate the 150th anniversary of the birth of the Confederacy's Civil War leader Jan. 19, by posthumously restoring "his full rights of citizenship."

Capehart's bill says Lee "was never restored to his full civil rights following termination of the War Between the States notwithstanding the fact that he made due application for presidential pardon."

At the time of Lee's death Oct. 12, 1870, the bill said, he "still was denied the right to hold any office, either civil or military, and the right to serve on any jury and certain other rights inherent in American citizenship."

Dozen Airmen Killed In Fiery Alaskan Crash

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 17 (AP)—An Air Force plane with 12 crew members crashed and blew to bits in snow and predawn darkness today after its takeoff on a 3,700-mile weather observation flight.

Territorial police and Air Force officers said there were no survivors.

The four-engine WB50, heavily loaded with gasoline for its long mission, crashed and exploded in all-engulfing flames two minutes after the takeoff from the Eielson Air Force Base.

The fuel and wreckage burned like an inferno along a path 200 yards long and 50 yards wide on the flat land three miles north of the base. Eielson is 26 miles southeast of this central Alaska city.

Television cameraman Norm Holve, who reached the grim scene an hour after the crash, said, "It looked as though a bomb had exploded." He said there were only a few recognizable pieces of the plane.

The plane, an improved version of the famed B29 Superfortress of World War II, had taken off from the 14,000-foot runway, one of the longest in the world. The mushroom of flame from the crash was visible to the Eielson tower crew through the murky darkness.

Tito Slated To Visit U.S. In Late April

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The United States and Yugoslavia are reported to have agreed that Marshal Tito should visit the United States in late April, around Easter time.

Diplomatic informants who reported this today said the Communist Yugoslav leader would visit the White House as guest of President Eisenhower during his stay.

Macmillan Sees History Justifying Egypt Venture

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said tonight he believes history will justify last fall's British-French invasion of the Middle East.

He made only passing reference to the Middle East venture which led to the downfall of his predecessor, Sir Anthony Eden. But in a speech devoted largely to the future of Britain as a nation, he said, "I believe history will justify what we did."

"The difficulties we are up against are the price we are paying for action," he said in a nationwide TV and radio address. "But the price of inaction, the price we would have had to pay for letting things slide, that might have been very high indeed."

As to the future, Macmillan

Ike Will 'Lean Over Backward' To Keep From Using Troops

Assurance Given Congress By Dulles

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has assured congressmen that President Eisenhower will "lean over backward" to keep from using American armed forces in the Middle East.

The statement came in secret testimony before the House Foreign Affairs Committee Jan. 9. The committee made it public today after editing Dulles' remarks in the name of national security.

Dulles has been saying all along that Eisenhower would not abuse the authority he has asked of Congress—to use American forces to help any Middle East country that is overtly attacked by Communists, and asks for help.

The testimony released today said Eisenhower would "lean over backward not to interpret the facts as justifying the use of armed forces unless there was real danger to the United States in the situation."

Other Dulles statements included:

1. If one Middle East country raids another, and asks for Soviet "volunteers" in expanding the raid, the Soviet forces would not be regarded as making an open armed attack as long as they stayed "entirely within the boundaries of the country that invited them."

2. "We certainly hope" that the Middle East situation will soon change so much that the standby authority resolution could be terminated, but "I would be lacking in candor if I said I thought it was likely to change within the next year or so."

In other developments today, Eisenhower's economic-military program for the Middle East drew support from House speaker Sam

Coffee Prices Cut Four Cents By A&P

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—The A&P touched off a series of coffee price cuts by supermarket chains today, but most major coffee roasters failed to follow suit on their nationally advertised vacuum-packed brands.

A&P, the biggest national chain, coffee, Eight O'Clock, unchanged at 87 cents a pound, but trimmed 4 cents a pound off its other brands. That left a scale of Red Circle bagged coffee, 91 cents a pound; Bokar bagged coffee, 95 cents a pound and the chain's private brand of vacuum-packed coffee, 99 cents.

Khrushchev Calls Stalin "Model Red"

Soviet Party Chief Defends Dictator He Labeled Murderer

MOSCOW, Jan. 17 (AP)—Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev tonight praised Stalin as a model Communist in his fight for the workers.

Nearly a year ago Khrushchev denounced the late dictator as a mass murderer, assailed "the cult of the individual," and questioned Stalin's communism.

Roars of approval by the audience and wild applause by visiting Chinese Premier Chou En-lai greeted Khrushchev's statement at a reception given by Chou for Kremlin leaders.

Bulgarian Needles Nikita

The party chief was needed by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

With Soviet brandy and Chinese wine flowing freely in toasts of friendship and mutual praise, the red-faced, exuberant Khrushchev grabbed a microphone to make a speech that began:

"I don't need to say that I'm a Communist."

Bulgarian interrupted:

"But some people say you are a Stalinist."

"I am a Stalinist," Khrushchev whipped back, "but I don't separate Stalinism and Stalin from communism. As a Communist fighting for the interest of the working class, Stalin was a model Communist."

"We have criticized Stalin, we still criticize Stalin as a bad Communist as far as the interests of the working classes are concerned."

Audience Roars Approval

"Stalin had his bad points. Lenin saw them before we did and pointed them out. They were borne out. The defects were bad."

"But in the things that counted, that is the interests of the working class, God grant that every Communist should fight for the interest of the working class as Stalin did."

The audience roared approval again. It included foreign diplomats who have recognized Red China. Western correspondents were present.

Carney, Gleason To Part In June

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Art Carney confirmed today that he's ending his five-year television association with comedian Jackie Gleason when his contract runs out in June.

Carney's personal agent, William McCaffrey, said the parting is amicable all around. He said: "Gleason has other plans for next year and they don't include Carney. That's to Carney's liking. We think he's ready to fly on his own."

"Our contract with Gleason ends in June. I don't presume to speak for Jackie or comment on what's he's going to do. Art and I are very friendly with Jackie. Art owes a great deal to him."

"But my concern is Art. He has had a most successful engagement with Jackie and now Art and Jackie are going their separate ways."

There have been reports that Gleason may abandon his weekly comedy show on CBS television next season in favor of occasional spot shows.

Boy Seized In Extortion Plot Against Roy Rogers

AKRON, Ohio, Jan. 17 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy's plot to extort $500,000 from cowboy star Roy Rogers collapsed today. He was cornered by postal inspectors and police in the boiler room of a junior high school in nearby Barberton.

Postal inspectors said the boy admitted writing a letter to Rogers last Dec. 22, demanding he send him a million dollars, or be subjected to "moral disgrace" by the distribution to school children of "altered photographs" showing him in the nude.

One officer described the letter as "well-executed, well-written, well-framed, and well-thought out."

It instructed Rogers to send the money to "Peter Jones, baggage room, Greyhound bus station, Akron." When it had been dispatched, Rogers was to insert a classified ad in the Akron Beacon Journal's "Travel Information" section. The ad was to state: "Leaving for Spain Thursday. Need a pair of German glasses."

Virtually Entire Nation Shivers In Record Cold

By The Associated Press
Virtually the entire country except southern Florida and southwestern California shivered in winter's refrigerator Thursday. Records for cold were shattered in parts of the East.

Colder air that pushed westward over the continental divide brought some subzero readings in the Northwest. Pendleton, Ore., had a low of -6 and Spokane, Wash., -1.

However, the most severe cold was in New York State, where Saranac Lake recorded a low of -31 and Poughkeepsie, in the southeastern section, -14.

Record low readings for the date included Parkersburg, W. Va., -9; Columbus, Ohio, -7; Cleveland, -6 and Pittsburgh, -6. Youngstown, Ohio had an all time low reading of -12.

The cold spell was the worst since 1948 in West Virginia, where zero readings were common.

Chou Accuses West Of Trying To Divide Reds

MOSCOW, Jan. 17 (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai accused the West today of trying to loosen the ties of Communist countries with the Soviet Union. He promised the leaders of the Kremlin that Red China will "exert all its efforts to strengthen the eternal and indestructible ties between us."

Just back from visits in Warsaw and Budapest, Chou made crystal clear in a speech the alignment of Red China behind the Soviet Union in its campaign against "national communism" in Poland and Hungary, or wherever it may arise.

Chou Speaks At Rally

Chou addressed a mass rally of Soviet workers who turned out in his honor in the Kremlin Palace.

Soviet Premier Bulganin echoed Chou's words that Soviet-Chinese friendship was eternal. Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist party chieftain who has been visiting in the hinterlands, was present but did not speak.

Chou went straight down the Kremlin line in blaming the Hungarian revolt on "Western imperialists." He denounced President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine and the British-French intervention in Egypt.

Chou, Kadar In Agreement

He made no reference to his discussions in Warsaw. There have been indications Chou did not reach complete unanimity of views with Polish leaders.

In Budapest, Chou and Premier Janos Kadar signed a joint declaration that set forth Red China as fully agreeing with the action of the Soviet Union in using its armed might to crush the Hungarian revolt.

Two Die In Bomber Crash At Air Base

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 17 (AP)—A B57 bomber crashed at Briggs Air Force Base near here today, killing two persons and injuring another.

The two dead were aboard the plane. A man working in the motor pool where the plane crashed was slightly injured. Officials said few persons were at the pool at the time of the crash.

The plane struck two buildings, destroyed two trucks and damaged several others. A gasoline truck caught fire following the crash.

Conditions Include UN Guarantees

U.S. Again Demands Withdrawal, Backs Asian-African Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—Israel offered today to withdraw from the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh gateway to the Gulf of Aqaba if the U.N. could arrange lasting protection for Israel's rights in those vital areas.

Mrs. Golda Meir, Israeli foreign minister, announced this conditional offer to the U.N. Assembly as it once again began debate on the Israeli withdrawal from Egypt.

Fresh from top-level talks in Jerusalem, she told the Assembly it would not be enough for the U.N. Emergency Force to occupy those controversial areas. She said Israel wanted guarantees, perhaps from the principal maritime powers, to protect shipping in the Aqaba area and that Israel wanted to discuss a solution for Gaza.

Lodge Renews Demand

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., United States delegate, answered her with a renewed and blunt demand for Israel to pull out of Gaza and Sharm el Sheikh immediately. The U.S. view is that work on a permanent settlement between Israel and Egypt can begin only when Israel has pulled back behind the 1949 armistice lines.

Lodge announced his support of a resolution introduced in the Assembly by 24 Asian-African countries. It notes previous Assembly resolutions demanding Israel's withdrawal and requests Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to continue his efforts to obtain Israel's complete withdrawal.

The resolution asks Hammarskjold to report completion of Israel's withdrawal within five days. Lodge said the United States feels it is important that the U.N. Emergency Force move in immediately behind the withdrawing Israeli forces in order to assure the maintenance of the cease-fire and to safeguard the 1949 armistice agreement.

Israeli Timetable Given

This was the first time the Assembly had debated the Israeli-Egyptian problem since Dec. 21, when Arab delegates heatedly demanded that Hammarskjold accelerate the rate of Israeli withdrawal.

Mrs. Meir said that by next Tuesday Israel will have evacuated approximately 30,000 square miles of territory it held at the end of November when the U.N. Emergency Force first, as she said, became capable of following up Israeli withdrawals.

She said that by Tuesday Israel would be out of all of the Sinai Peninsula except the Sharm el Sheikh area, a strip on the west coast of the Gulf of Aqaba which controls navigation through the Straits of Tiran to the gulf and thence to the southern Israel port of Eilat.

Evidence Lost In Murder Case

EASTBOURNE, England, Jan. 17 (AP)—Important evidence in the murder case against the prosperous society doctor, John Bodkin Adams, was reported mysteriously missing tonight.

Scotland Yard admitted that a 1,000-pound—$2,800 — check that one of the doctor's rich patients gave him before she died had "disappeared" at her inquest.

Unaccounted for also were five prescriptions for drugs which the doctor is said to have ordered for a comely 50-year-old widow, Mrs. Gertrude Joyce Hullett, who died in July last year.

"We've not only looked for the missing prescriptions," drug store official Michael Clark testified in a preliminary hearing, "we've sincerely tried to find them several times."

The Eastbourne druggist said a Scotland Yard inspector was the last person he saw with the prescriptions.

Scotland Yard accuses Dr. Adams with responsibility for Mrs. Hullett's death after allegedly drugging her wealthy and aged husband to death.

The physician, a 57-year-old bachelor, has been charged with the murder of Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81-year-old widow.

No formal charges have been filed in the Hullett cases. But the prosecution says Dr. Adams killed all three with overdoses after filling them with drugs in order to profit from their gifts and bequests.

Filmdom Pays Final Homage To Bogart

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Jan. 17 (AP)—With a tribute to his "sheer animal courage" in the face of death echoing in their ears, Hollywood's great paid final homage today to actor Humphrey Bogart.

The assemblage of celebrities—thousands of them lined the street outside the church. Shortly before in years—packed All Saints Episcopal church for memorial services.

Writer-director John Huston appeared to capture the feeling of all when he said in his simple eulogy:

"With the years he had become of his profession—actor, not star-actor. Himself he never took seriously—his work most seriously. He regarded the somewhat gaudy figure of Bogart, the star, with sort of an amused cynicism: Bogart the actor he held in deepest respect."

Among the stars who attended: Katharine Hepburn, Errol Flynn, Danny Kaye, Dean Martin, Danny Thomas, Gary Cooper, Charles Boyer, Jennifer Jones, Marlene Dietrich, Claire Trevor, Robert Wagner, Louis Jourdan, Tony Martin, Joan Fontaine, James Mason, Ronald Reagan, Dorothy McGuire, Gregory Peck, Ida Lupino and Spencer Tracy.

Bogart fans were there too. A thousand of them lined the street outside the church. Shortly before the ceremony, the doors of the half-filled church were opened to the public. The crowd surged forward. Police restored order.

Actress Lauren Bacall, Bogart's widow, arrived with the Bogart children, Stephen, 8, and Leslie, 4. All were composed as the listened to the Rev. Kermit Callahan read the Ten Commandments, which he said had "special meaning" in Bogart's life.

The newspaper, in a dispatch from Washington, said it learned a record-breaking nonstop flight by eight jet engines, are scheduled to land tomorrow morning at March and Castle Air Force bases in California.

Byrd Labels President's Budget Inflationary, Urges Deep Slash

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today inflation has cut the American dollar in half since 1940 and President Eisenhower's budget would make it worth even less.

"This budget, which will lead to still further inflation and commits our government to new avenues of spending, must be substantially reduced to preserve our solvency," Byrd said.

Byrd, the outstanding spokesman for economy in Congress, quoted the Republican Secretary of the Treasury, George M. Humphrey, to support his call for cuts in Eisenhower's plan to spend $71,807,000,000 in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Three subcommittees of the House Appropriations Committee began work today on parts of the budget, with expressions of hope they can trim substantial amounts.

The budget proposed by Eisenhower is the largest ever for a peace-time year, but it does call for holding spending within income for the third straight year.

Secretary Humphrey has said that the budget is the best the administration could offer under the circumstances, but declared it important to the nation that the trend toward higher government spending must be stopped.

If the trend isn't stopped, Humphrey said, "we will have a depression that will make your hair curl."

Byrd had Humphrey's statement put into the Congressional record, and declared on his own: "After losing 48 per cent of the purchasing power of the dollar from 1940 to 1952, inflation was halted and the dollar was stable in value until 1956, when inflation began again in substantial measure, and the value of the dollar declined in 1956 by 2 cents, so that today the American dollar is worth just one-half of what it was in 1940."

Reporters Ousted From Red Hungary

BUDAPEST, Jan. 17 (AP)—Hungary expelled two more Western reporters today. Michael Weigall, 27, of Reuters, and Raimund Hoerhager, 46, of the Sueddeutsche Zeitung, Munich, and other West German newspapers, were told to be gone by noon tomorrow.

John MacCormac, veteran correspondent of the New York Times was notified yesterday that he was being expelled, but he was leaving the country anyhow.

Grace And Prince Agree On Names For First Child

MONTE CARLO, Jan. 17 (AP)—I gave several names and she gave several names and we compromised."

Prince Rainer of Monaco said today he and Princess Grace had agreed that way upon names for their first child, expected soon.

If it's a boy they will call him Prince Gregory — Gregoire in French. A girl will be Princess Caroline.

Palace officials disclosed how the prince and the former Grace Kelly of the movies compromised — he selected the names for a boy, she chose the names for a girl.

The officials have long known that Rainer, ruler of this pocket principality, wants a girl while Grace wants a boy.

If the child is a boy he will become Prince Gregory I when he succeeds to his father's throne. A girl, should she ever reign, would be Princess Caroline I. Under Monacan law, however, a girl would not succeed to the throne should a prince be born later.

Probe Of Newsprint Price Hikes Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) today proposed a Senate investigation of the continuing rise in the price of newsprint.

He introduced a resolution calling for an inquiry by the Banking and Currency Committee, which would be instructed to report by next June 30. Among other things, the committee would be directed to find whether any legislation is needed to assure "an adequate and stable supply of newsprint at reasonable prices."

Mundt told the Senate he had written the Federal Trade Commission and the Tariff Commission asking whether they could obtain any relief for newsprint buyers.

Officials Suffer Cuts In Peru Sabre Duel

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 17 (AP)—Fernando Belaunde, unsuccessful candidate for president last year, and Rep. Eduardo Watson fought a duel with sabers early today near Lima. Both men were wounded, but remained unconquered.

Belaunde suffered cuts on the back of his right hand and on the thumb. Watson suffered a cut on his left ear and another on his shoulder. None of the cuts was regarded as serious. Duelling is illegal in Peru but the law includes no penalty for those who violate it.

The duel grew out of a radio speech to the nation by Belaunde, chief of the Popular Action party, in which he severely criticized the government of President Manuel Prado. Watson replied in letters to the local papers, and Belaunde considered the letters insulted him. He demanded an explanation and when Watson refused the duel was arranged.

Women Urged To Work For Highway Safety

The important part women are playing in traffic safety was stressed by Mrs. John S. Gardiner, Baltimore, in speaking to the members of the Woman's Civic Club yesterday on "Traffic Safety."

She pointed out the necessity for groups to be formed to make all conscious of traffic safety, and announced Maryland is to have six one-day clinics.

These will be open to the public and are to form a pattern and organize more groups, from members of all organizations. The meeting for this district will be held in Frederick February 11.

Discussing the car inspection law, Mrs. Gardiner explained that the neighboring states have it, and cars that cannot pass it are being brought into Maryland for sale to the young people. She urged the mothers to bring to the attention of their children the danger and cluttering of the highways. Pointing out that she is a mother and grandmother and has time, so does her audience. Mrs. Gardiner attended the White House Highway safety conference, received the Carol Lane award of the Shell Oil Company in recognition of her achievements in traffic safety in Maryland; and through her leadership, Maryland won the "Pilot State" award of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. A. D. Heacock, president, opened the meeting and Mrs. Paul Fletcher led the collect and flag salute. Mrs. Albert Payne gave a routine report. Mrs. Joseph Miller, chairman of the American Home group, announced a meeting January 24 when Mrs. Ernest Lindsay will speak on "Ceramics as a Hobby."

R. Bowen Hardesty, president of State Teachers College, Frostburg, will be the speaker for the general meeting February 21. Mrs. Anthony Saeli, Community Service chairman, announced Rosenbaum's will present a style show May 3. Attention also was called to the Pittsburgh Symphony concert February 4.

Members were asked to report ill members. Attention was called to the fact that group reports are to be made to their chairmen by February 1, for the district and state reports. Mrs. Lloyd Mobus was welcomed as a member and greetings were extended to Mrs. William Douglas, state president. Mrs. Morgan Smith introduced the speaker, who was accompanied here by Miss Dorothy Healy, public relations worker of the Maryland Traffic Commission.

Concluding the meeting the club entertained Mrs. Gardiner at a tea, using the new silver service gift of the Junior Woman's Civic Club. Mrs. Joseph Naughton poured. Assorted flowers centered the table with silver candelabra and white tapers at either end. Hostesses were Mrs. William Ryan, Mrs. Edward Ryan, Mrs. John Wilkinson, Mrs. Kenton Farrell, Mrs. Paul Fletcher, Mrs. Louis Spoerl, Mrs. Harry Teter and Mrs. John McClure.

Three Men Get Drop On Patrolman, Remove Coat, Leave Him Tied To Tree

BALTIMORE, Jan. 17 (AP)—Three suspicious-looking men, who could have been following a Hollywood script, got the drop on a police officer last night, took him for a ride into the country, removed his overcoat and tied him to a tree. But before they left, they threw his overcoat over his shoulders and tossed a quilt over him, saying, "You won't freeze to death so quick that way." The temperature was about 10 above.

That was the report today by Patrolman Charles W. Zeller, 30, who worked free of his bonds and was picked up by State Police after he called from a neighboring farmhouse.

Zeller gave this account: He was alone in his cruiser when he saw two men acting suspiciously. He tried to follow but lost them in the darkness.

He drove to the rear of the Oriole Refrigeration Co. building. A car was parked there.

He got out and went over. Two men were in the car. He asked the one behind the wheel for his driver's license. The man said the other was driving and had it on the opposite side of the car.

As the patrolman went around the car, reaching for his pistol, a third man pressed a long-barreled pistol in his back.

"Don't move, or I'll kill you," he headed for the country.

"Okay," answered Zeller, "don't shoot."

The three tied him up and tossed him in the back of the car. Then they headed for the country.

About 10 miles out, they pulled onto a side road off Old Annapolis road. They took Zeller out and tied him to a tree, gagging him with a napkin and a woman's stocking.

After covering him, they left. Zeller figured it took him about an hour to work free.

"First, I got my hands up to my face and managed to pull the gag free," he told State troopers. "Then I chewed through the rope that bound my hands."

"I began twisting my body against the line binding me to the tree and loosened it some."

"Finally, with a big lunge, I broke it and fell to the ground. My hands were so numb I could not untie the knots binding my ankles. At last I got my shoes off and by twisting my feet, brought one of them through the loop, and I was free."

He said he put on his shoes on again and headed for a nearby farmhouse, where he called State and city police.

Supervisors Urge Pay Hike For Assessors

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—Back in the old days a Maryland property assessor was often some big politician's shiftless brother-in-law who went to the horse races while an office flunkie did his work for him. But now an assessor's job is more important and requires the full attention of trained personnel who deserve bigger salaries.

This was the picture drawn today at a House Ways and Means Committee hearing by Stephen M. Kahoe, Harford County supervisor of assessments.

Kahoe and other county supervisors joined State Tax Commission officials in testifying for a bill to increase the supervisors' salaries throughout the state.

Paid by the State and county on a 50-50 basis, they are now $2,500-$3,250 in the smaller counties and range up to $4,600-$5,600 in the larger subdivisions. The bill, recommended by the Maryland Assn. of Assessing Officers, would raise the salary brackets to $4,500-$6,500 up to $11,500-$13,500.

Raises $800 to $2,450 would be provided in the base annual pay of assessors, bringing them up to $3,500 and $6,000 in the lowest and highest brackets. The State would pay 60 per cent of salaries under the proposed setup, the county the rest.

Kahoe said the State's assessing staff has made "tremendous strides in the last few years." With much of State aid to the counties geared to the assessable basis, he said, this progress has been necessary.

But he told the committee the Legislature should make the salaries more attractive to young men who must replace many of the assessors still hanging on from the old days.

Baltimore County Supervisor Howard E. Burkhardt, another witness, was asked whether the proposed scale might not be unrealistic in comparison with salaries paid other county officials. Before he could answer fully, another committee member asked whether, in view of the state's contribution toward their salaries, the assessors were State officials or county officials.

"The State don't own us," he replied, "and the counties won't own us."

The committee took no immediate action on the bill.

Marylander Named To Security Group

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower today appointed F. Moran McConihe of Rockville, Md., to be a member of the Commission on Government Security, succeeding Carter Lane Burgess, who resigned.

This commission is studying the government security program and is due to make its final report June 30, 1957.

McConihe is a Democrat and is now commissioner of the public building service of the General Services Administration, a position he will continue to hold.

Bribe For Dogs

MAIZURU, Japan, Jan. 17 (AP)—Something new has been added to mail bags of Maizuru's postmen—a package of dried fish. The fish is tossed over fences to bribe vicious dogs. They say it works.

West Virginia's Gross Sales Tax Collections Rise

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 17 (AP)—Gross sales tax receipts for the first four months of the fiscal year totaled $22,594,972 in West Virginia.

Receipts were 16 per cent, or $3,166,322, higher than those for the comparable period of 1955.

Of the four month report—July through November—coal accounted for $5,059,202, 33 per cent up from the previous year. Taxes on production of all natural resources in the state amounted to $6,338,254 for the period.

Another Tax Department report listed net gasoline tax collections of $2,144,706 in November, a drop of $81,169, or more than 3.6 per cent, from the same period the previous year.

Bridge Work Halted

BALTIMORE, Jan. 17 (AP)—Initial construction on the $950,000 toll bridge across Sinepuxent Bay has been completed, the Public Service Commission has been told.

The Assateague Island Bridge Corp., in a progress report, said further construction work will not resume until spring. The span will run from Worcester County, on the lower Eastern Shore, to Assateague Island, in the Atlantic Ocean.

Plastics At Root Skyscrapers Built Like Trees Seen In 20 Years

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Skyscrapers built like trees, houses made of chemicals and countless other changes are expected to revolutionize America's architectural landscape by 1977.

This peek into the immediate future of construction is contained in predictions by the building magazine, Architectural Forum.

In its current issue, it says more than a trillion dollars will be spent for building in the next 20 years, adding that the vast expenditure will mean many strange and new types of structures.

At the base of the change, the magazine says, is the growing synthetic plastics output now rising beyond two million tons a year. There are now 17 distinct families of plastics, with an enormous range of types, properties and physical forms.

Some of these plastics, their development spurred by World War II, have found their way into building in such forms as light interior paneling, insulation and plastic piping.

New plastics, the magazine says, will rival traditional materials such as steel.

Skyscrapers in 1977 will more nearly reflect the engineering concepts of trees.

Today's towers are elaborate steel cages on which are hung walls, floors and service shafts. Future skyscrapers may reverse this arrangement by making the service shafts large hollow cores or backbones, like tree trunks, from which floors branch out like limbs, and walls become like curtains.

The wall of the future will be a continuous sheath or a series of self-contained panels. In its widest implications, this new wall means a structure in which exterior and interior surface, air space, windowing, insulation, wiring, lighting, heating and air conditioning form a single unit as they do in the human skin.

The predicted "sandwich" wall is simply two thin skins of surfacing material bonded or laminated to a structural core.

Lighting, heating and cooling would be combined in the sandwich walls themselves. The walls

TV Teaching Will Expand

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 17 (AP)—The first progress report on Washington County's television teaching program was given yesterday and it was generally agreed the five-year plan was progressing satisfactorily.

"It is evident," said William M. Brish, superintendent of county schools, "that a school system can plan effectively and carry on an extensive program of televised instruction in all areas of the curriculum on a daily basis."

Brish gave his report to about 150 educators and newsmen. The TV educating started last September. All eight schools in Hagerstown are on the hookup and each public school student is supposed to receive at least one hour of televised instruction daily.

By next year some 15 schools in the county will be included in the network and all 48 public schools are expected to be on the network by 1958.

Equipment for the program is provided by the Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers Assn. and money by The Fund for the Advancement of Education, which comes under the Ford Foundation.

Brish said the teachers who prepare and give lectures on television do not teach in the classrooms.

But the superintendent said the two types of teachers work as a team, meeting regularly to plan their lessons. He said the TV lessons are tied in with the classroom work and as a result the teachers in the classroom have more time to give to individual problems of personality and the like.

Russian Scientists Work On 'Planet TV'

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Russian scientists are working on plans to send TV cameras in rockets to the moon and the planets Venus and Mars. Radio Moscow reported to-night.

The project, called Cosmic TV, was described by Soviet scientist Yuri Slepkech in a broadcast beamed to Britain.

Slepkech said it is proposed to send up the TV equipment in rocket-propelled laboratory tanks, controlled by radio from the earth. At suitable moments cameras would take pictures and images would be transmitted back to the earth.

A light to Venus, he calculated, would take 146 days. On the last day of the trip the camera would take up to 8,000 pictures, grinding away until the apparatus crashes on the surface of the planet.

Transmitting TV signals such great distances still presents serious problems, Slepkech said, but he thought flights might be attempted between 1962 and 1967.

Elected officers by the board of directors were Lynn C. Lashley, president; C. Arthur Brotemarkle, vice president; Gordon L. Bowie, vice president; Gerald L. Harrison, vice president and secretary; William H. Harman, treasurer; Henrietta C. Ponton, assistant secretary, and Cora Z. Hardin, assistant treasurer.

George W. Legge was named attorney and counsel for the firm.

Under a broad judicial bill in the 1955 General Assembly that was followed by a constitutional amendment, Allegany County figured to lose one of its two judges in 1958.

The amendment called for a resident judge in Garrett County. An attempt to retain the two judges for Allegany County was made during the 1955 session, but the Senate Judiciary Committee killed it, stating the amount of work did not justify a second judge here. Similar legislation has been sought covering judgeships in 1953, it was recalled.

As the existing law limits the Fourth Judicial Circuit to three judges, and with the subsequent appointment and election of Judge Neil C. Fraley in Garrett County, one of the county's two judges would be eliminated.

No one can be legislated out of office and the circuit comprising Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties will have four judges until the Chief Judge George Henderson reaches the compulsory retirement age of 70 on March 17, 1958.

Traditionally since the establishment of the Fourth Circuit, two of its judges have always been Allegany countyans and one a Washington countyan.

In the event the bill does not pass, the circuit in 1958 will have Judge Morgan C. Harris here, Judge David K. McLaughlin in Washington County and Judge Fraley in Garrett.

Sen. See pointed out that Thomas J. S. Waxter, head of the State Department of Public Welfare, has requested that juvenile courts be raised to circuit court status. His report also recommended that a Special Master be appointed to handle juvenile cases and report to the court.

Allegany County is one of only five counties in Maryland that have juvenile courts below a circuit court status.

The January Grand Jury of Allegany County recommended a study be made of the County's level of elevating the court to the level of the Circuit Court.

'Second Judge' Bill For County May Go To Assembly

In all probability, a bill will be introduced in this session of the General Assembly to retain two judges for Allegany County Circuit Court.

The measure would also transfer juvenile court affairs in this county into the Circuit Court.

State Sen. Charles M. See said in Annapolis yesterday that he and the county's six delegates have been discussing this measure for some time, and he declared that a bill would be introduced "in all probability."

Under a broad judicial bill in the 1955 General Assembly that was followed by a constitutional amendment, Allegany County figured to lose one of its two judges in 1958.

Glass Plant Expects To Resume Manufacturing On January 28

The Cumberland Glass Company, burned out September 26, expects to be back in business by January 28. George Hickie, plant manager, said yesterday. In four short months, the glass plant has been reconstructed at a new location, the old locomotive repair shop of the C&P Railroad in Mt. Savage. The plant owned by Cumberland Glass and the adjacent cutting and etching plant, the Queen Glass Company, in LaVale were leveled by fire on the early morning of September 26. Still on its way are the conveyors and cracking off machine where the lip edge of glassware is finished. The firstlehr has been completed while the anneal-lehr is about half finished. The employees have done most of the work, including laying a new concrete floor in the big stone building, and constructing the new furnace. The office has been set up in the new location and Hickie said the company has plenty of business. All of the old customers have held up their orders until the company could get back in business, he added.

There is a great demand for the fine flint glassware made by this firm. It is one of the very few quality, custom glassware plants in the nation.

Death Claim Settled Out Of Court

Settlement of a claim in the death of a Midland dairy worker which had been appealed to the Maryland Court of Appeals was announced yesterday.

Simon F. Reilly and Milton Gerson, attorneys for Mrs. Anna Wilson, widow of Harold Wilson, said the case was settled for $9,100 and medical and hospital expenses incident to the injury suffered by the dairy worker.

Wilson, who was an employee of the Dashiell Dairy Company, was injured August 15, 1953 when he was hit on the leg by a milk can. The man developed cancer of the leg and it was amputated. He died October 3, 1955.

At a hearing before the State Industrial Accident Commission the claim was not allowed. An appeal was taken to Circuit Court and a jury awarded $10,000 and medical expenses. The appeal to the high court followed and after a conference the settlement was reached. The State Accident Fund was represented by Thomas B. Finan, local attorney.

Better Late Than Never

BARRIE, Ont., Jan. 17 (UP)—The Town Council has learned it has been sitting illegally for nine years.

The Council happened to look up a point in its rules. It found Rule No. 1 said the Council shall meet in the fire hall.

The Council has met in offices across the road from the hall since 1948.

Ridgeley Motorist Is Fined $25 On Hit-Run Charge

A young Ridgeley motorist was fined $25 Wednesday on a hit-run charge involving his vehicle and a sawmill on the Augusta-Rio Road in Hampshire County, W. Va.

John Luther Weaver, 19, pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell in Romney.

Weaver was also ordered to reimburse the owner for damage done to the sawmill.

Sgt. R. E. Schnell, commander, and Trooper C. E. Dorsey of the Romney detachment of West Virginia State Police apprehended Weaver when he ran off the highway near Augusta shortly after the hit-run incident.

Sgt. Schnell said the young motorist had first run off the highway and continued driving towards Augusta-Rio Road and crashed into a sawmill owned by Claude Davis of Augusta. The accident apparently was caused by the icy condition of the road, Sgt. Schnell explained that it was snowing at the time.

Damage to the sawmill was estimated at $100 by the state trooper, who said damage to the vehicle in both crashes would Weaver, he explained, then run around the same figure.

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

A distinguished statesman once noted that evils can spring much more easily from business losses than from the frequently criticized large profits.

That opinion is obviously a severe over-simplification of one of the major issues in our economy, but it points up the fact that we must never disregard any difficulties encountered by the numerous business operations which form the structure of our way of life.

This is especially true in re-which would allow lower corporation income taxes on income up to $25,000, authorize more liberal depreciation formulas for second-hand equipment, permit corporations with ten or fewer stockholders to be taxed as if they were partnerships, and adjust the regulations concerning the payment of certain estate taxes on business enterprises.

Several of my colleagues on the Banking and Currency Committee have already indicated that they will support these proposals.

Historical Park Proposed

In addition to cosponsoring the small business legislation, I have also introduced or cosponsored several other bills which I believe will be of interest to my fellow Marylanders.

Among these are measures to establish the Chesapeake Ohio National Historical Park, to make volunteer Civil Defense workers eligible for income tax deductions, and to revise the antiquated fish and game laws of the District of Columbia.

In closing, I would like to extend a warm invitation from my staff and myself for you to visit us in our new offices—Suite 244—in the Senate Office Building. The door is always open.

New Bills Introduced

My initial action in the recently convened 85th Congress in behalf of small businesses was to cosponsor three bills, which are designed to accomplish the following:

1. To make the Small Business Administration, which is scheduled to expire on June 30, a permanent agency;
2. To authorize small business loans at three per cent interest in chronic areas of labor surplus, and
3. To grant the tax relief for small businesses which has been recommended by President Eisenhower's Cabinet Committee on Small Business.

Lower Corporation Taxes

Among the sections of the tax relief measure are provisions

Milk, so important in the daily diet, can be varied in taste and made a fun drink with the taffy flavor of molasses. As for styles, the taffy milk can be served hot or cold and in egg nog. Molasses cookies join the treat.

Unsulphured Molasses Fortifies Milk Drinks

For extra flavor and iron-enrichment of milk drinks, add three tablespoons of delicate unsulphured molasses to a quart of milk. Then it's ready for mealtime and after-school refreshment.

The taffy milk can be heated for a Molasses Toddy at bedtime for youngsters or parents. Put a stick of cinnamon in a "spicy muddler" which is both stirrer and flavorer. For the younger family member, serve the Taffy Milk cold in a gay mug.

Milk Lassi is a creamy and foamy drink which youngsters will enjoy. To prepare a quart of this drink with its extra protein and iron bounty, add one-half cup of nonfat dry milk and 3 tablespoons of unsulphured molasses to a quart of fluid milk. For those watching their calorie count, the molasses and nonfat dry milk can be added to fluid skim milk.

The Molasses Egg Nog with its topping of whipped cream can be served hot or cold.

HOT MOLASSES TODDY

- 1 tablespoon unsulphured molasses
- 1 cup hot milk
- Stir unsulphured molasses into milk. Pour into mug or cup. Use stick cinnamon as stirrer, or top with whipped cream or marshmallow.

YIELD: 1 serving.

MOLASSES EGG NOG

- 1 egg, separated
- 1 tablespoon unsulphured molasses
- 1 cup hot or cold milk
- Nutmeg

Beat egg yolk and unsulphured molasses; gradually stir in milk. Beat egg white until stiff but not dry; stir in molasses-milk mixture. Top with whipped cream, if desired, and sprinkle with nutmeg.

YIELD: 1 serving.

MILK LASSIE

- 1/2 cup nonfat dry milk
- 3 tablespoons unsulphured molasses
- 1 quart milk
- (whole or skim*)

Add the nonfat dry milk and unsulphured molasses to fresh milk. Shake or beat until light and frothy, or until the dry milk has been completely dissolved. Keep in refrigerator and use cold during the day between meals, and hot as a delicious nightcap. *Skim milk is particularly recommended for low-calorie dieters.

TAFFY MILK

Use 1 tablespoon unsulphured molasses for each cup milk. Add molasses to milk; stir or shake well. Serve immediately or refrigerate until ready to use.

MOLASSES CRUNCH COOKIES

- 1 cup shortening
- 1 1/2 cups unsulphured molasses
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1 egg

Melt shortening in saucepan large enough for mixing cookies. Stir in unsulphured molasses and sugar; cool. Sift together flour, salt, soda and spices. Mix in small amount of flour; beat in egg. Add remaining flour, blending until smooth. Chill dough about 2 hours. Shape into 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased cookie sheet about 2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven, (350°F.) 15 minutes. If desired, spread cookies while warm with glaze made with 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar and 1 tablespoon water. Store in tightly covered container.

YIELD: 5 dozen cookies.

Refrigerator Makes Delicious Chicken Salad

Canned boned chicken is a pantry shelf staple. Use it to good advantage in this creamy molded salad that's a honey for luncheons. It will save lots of last minute work: Soften 1 envelope unflavored gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water. Place container of gelatin in a pan of boiling water until gelatin is dissolved. Combine with 1 can (1 1/4 cups) condensed cream of celery soup, 1 can (5-ounce size) boned chicken, diced, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/4 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons sliced stuffed olives, and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Pour into 1-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on crisp salad greens with cranberry dressing, hot buttered rolls and a simple dessert. Makes 4 large servings.

Jeweled Chees Salad

- 1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) Fruit Cocktail
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 package lime-flavored gelatin

- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
 - 1 cup cottage cheese
 - 1/4 cup coarsely chopped nuts
- Drain fruit cocktail, saving syrup. Dissolve gelatin in hot water, stir in fruit cocktail syrup and lemon juice. Arrange drained fruit cocktail in 1-quart mold and pour in 1 cup of gelatin mixture; chill until firm. Blend remaining cup of gelatin into cottage cheese; add nuts and pour over fruit mixture. Chill for several hours or until set. Turn out on crisp greens and serve with or without mayonnaise.

Tomatoes Gloria

Great cooks love to devise simple things, and one of the greatest of modern Spanish cooks is Gloria, who runs a restaurant near Jerez, where all true sherry come from. For something wonderful before a meal, Gloria simply chops up an onion, mixes with it a finely diced clove of garlic, places a spoonful of the mixture on a slice of raw tomato, and tops it with a spoonful of mayonnaise made with fine Spanish olive oil. After grating fresh pepper on top, you eat the tomato slices with your fingers, sipping with them a glass of chilled dry sherry, either a fino or amontillado type. The combination of flavors is perfect.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON — Alexander Hamilton, the bicentennial of whose birth we are now observing, stands high among our founding fathers. As a schoolboy of 17, he began speaking and writing in support of the Colonial cause, showing a grasp of issues and a comprehension of the philosophy of government, that made him at once a feared enemy to the Loyalist opposition, and a valued member of the band of patriots that sparked the Revolution.

His military skill and boldness early in the Revolutionary War attracted the attention of Washington, who attached him to his own staff. Thus was Hamilton able to give full scope to his grasp of political affairs, and render invaluable aid to the general-in-chief upon whom fell the duties of secretary of war and chief of staff, as well as commander in the field. Hamilton assisted the organization of the army, by drafting plans for the correction of defects, and by preparing a comprehensive set of military regulations. In the midst of these military functions, Hamilton was devoting his powerful mind to the problems of government.

After the conclusion of the Revolution, in which Hamilton was privileged to head a brilliant attack, under Lafayette's command, at Yorktown, he served a term in the Continental Congress, confirming by intimate experience his theoretical understanding of the challenge of a new government. Hamilton, more than any other one man, contributed to the adoption of the Constitution as we have it now, through his magnificent contributions in the Federalist Papers, and his political activities in New York to assure the adherence of that powerful state.

A similar victory against apparently insuperable odds was won by Hamilton under the new government, when George Washington again expressed his confidence in him by appointing him Secretary of the Treasury. Against Congressional and Administration opposition, he planned and put into effect a complicated system of taxation, finance, and control of credit, from which, as Daniel Webster put it, "abundant streams of revenue gushed forth."

Alexander Hamilton's contributions to the founding of this nation, his courage and energy, his intellectual keenness and heart-felt eloquence, his integrity and his wisdom in the science of government, might well serve as a model to all of us in meeting our problems of today.

Savory Swiss Steak Appeals To Everyone

Swiss steak is the kind of meat dish everyone likes; men enjoy its rich hearty flavor; women are pleased with the economy of the meat; and children like its juicy tenderness. Savory Swiss steak is a popular, whole-some entree for any family dinner and the gravy is so good.

The term "Swiss steak" also refers to the way in which the meat is prepared. Swiss steaks are less tender cuts of beef, lamb, and veal, cooked by braising. Generally, cuts of meat weighing 1½ to 3 pounds and cut from 1 to 2 inches thick are used. Flour is pounded into the meat, which is then browned in fat, and cooked with a small amount of liquid and seasonings until tender. Most Swiss steak recipes include some form of cooked tomatoes, too.

Here is a recipe for a tasty Swiss steak. Dry mustard, pounded into the meat along with the flour, gives a "devised" flavor which blends so well with the tomatoes, and onion and garlic seasonings. Serve the remaining sauce over the meat.

Devised Swiss Steak
1½ pounds beef round steak
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 medium onion, sliced
2 tablespoons fat
1 clove garlic, minced
1 No. 303 can tomatoes (2 cups)

Mix flour, mustard, salt and pepper and pound into steak with meat pounder or edge of a heavy saucer. Cook onion in hot fat until yellow, and push to one side of pan. Brown meat thoroughly on both sides. Add remaining ingredients. Cover pan and cook over low heat 2 hours or until meat is tender. Add a small amount of water during cooking, if necessary. 6 servings.

Just as beef, lamb, or veal can be prepared as Swiss steak, so can a variety of cuts from each kind of meat. Besides the beef round steak in the recipe above, for example, beef rump, sirloin tip, and chuck steaks also can be used. They all are prepared by the same basic method.

This version of Swiss steak suggests beef chuck steak and is seasoned with tangy Worcestershire sauce, bay leaf and celery. If you prefer, cook this in a 325°F. oven instead of on top of the range.

Spicy Swiss Steak
2 pounds chuck steak, 1½ inches thick
¼ cup flour
2 tablespoons drippings or fat
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 No. 303 can tomatoes (2 cups)
2 medium onions, sliced
1 stalk celery, diced
1 bay leaf
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Pound flour into steak with meat pounder or edge of a heavy saucer. Brown slowly in hot fat in a heavy skillet. Sprinkle steak with salt and pepper and add remaining ingredients. Cover and cook over low heat or in a 325°F. oven 2 hours or until meat is tender. Add a small amount of water during cooking if necessary. Serve steak with the tomato gravy spooned over it. 6 servings.

For a thicker gravy, mix 2 tablespoons flour and ¼ cup water and stir into the sauce after the cooked meat has been removed. Cook over low heat.

Along The Potomac by Rep. De Witt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — The high screening of individuals admitted to this country, we must not jeopardize our nation's welfare. The stark realities involved in the admission of refugees must not be overlooked. For example, the admission of the Hungarian refugees is postponing indefinitely the admission of hundreds of refugees from other areas who have been waiting for years. Another important question we must face is how many refugees we are going to admit. Indications are that as long as we accept Hungarian refugees there will be people leaving Hungary and asking for admission. Many may not be legitimate refugees at all.

With other members of the House Committee on Immigration I have visited the Hungarian Refugees now at Camp Kilmer, New Jersey. Every effort is being made to see that these refugees are given good care and are properly directed to their new homes.

I made a special effort, in the short time available to us, to check on the security investigations conducted both in Kilmer and at the point of embarkation. I have some doubts as to whether or not the security check is thorough enough. In the main, though, our officials seem to be doing a good job. A major problem in dealing with the refugee problem is to keep our emotional sympathies under control. In the stirring, until the gravy becomes smooth and thickened. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Some cooks like to vary a basic recipe by changing the seasonings. Among the different seasonings suitable are thyme, basil, marjoram, garlic, Worcestershire sauce, chili powder, dry mustard, onion, and bay leaf. Instead of tomatoes use tomato paste, sauce, or puree.

I have introduced a bill to revise and modernize the fish and game laws of the District of Columbia. Senator Beall has a companion bill in the Senate. Both measures aim to bring our District of Columbia laws into conformity with present day concepts and to make them uniform with neighboring states.

Gas Shipper Seeks Increases In Rates

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (P)—Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. and three of its customer companies today proposed wholesale annual natural gas rate increases totaling $25,167,233.

The power commission, which received the applications, said Tennessee's proposed hike of $24,300,000—or 12.2 per cent annually—would affect about 70 customers in 13 states.

It added that other Tennessee customers have indicated they would seek increases to pass the proposed additional costs on to their wholesale customers, just as three have done.

In time, increases in wholesale costs almost always are passed on down the line to retail consumers.

The customers of Tennessee are located in Connecticut, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee and West Virginia.

The United States Marine Corps dates from November 10, 1775.

Catholic Unity Crusade Begun By Protestant

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Millions of Roman Catholics kneel today to pray for Christian unity.

They'll do so each day for a week, in churches throughout this country and abroad.

This is the 50th year for the vast, concerted spiritual plea that all others be brought into the Roman Catholic fold.

And the whole thing was started by a Protestant.

"There never has been such interest in unity as now," said the Rev. Titus Cranny, assistant national director of the observance. "I think that something, somehow, is going to result from it."

Beginning Friday, the eight-day period of special devotions, called "The Chair of Unity Octave," will be carried on daily in prayers and sermons through next Friday.

The theme is from Christ's own prayer: "That all may be one, as Thou, Father, in me, and I in Thee."

The movement was launched in 1908 by the Rev. Paul James Francis, then a Protestant Episcopal priest and founder of the Franciscan Friars of the Atonement (Graymoor Friars), near Garrison, N.Y.

He felt all Christianity should be united under papal authority, and so the next year he put this belief into action and became a Roman Catholic, along with 16 associates.

His unity crusade was expanded, with Rome's blessings, and turned into an annual worldwide church outpouring of prayer for the cause.

"It's growing steadily in scope and participation," said Father Cranny, of the Graymoors. The order each year sends out thousands of prayer books, pamphlets, posters and other material on the observance. Pope Pius XII sent a cablegram, pledging his own prayers that "abundant divine graces" will lend success to the effort.

"If each would take this invitation to fervent prayer seriously," says the Rev. Edward Hanahoe, of the Atonement Seminary, Washington, D.C., "there is no telling what the effect might be."

"To move a mountain is a small task for him who commands the wind and sea."

Ever since the Protestant Reformation split Christianity 400 years ago, Roman Catholicism has longed for "the great return" of those who quit the ancient church, says the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, of Pueblo, Colo.

"We are working and praying for a religious unity, a Catholic unity in which the various branches of non-Catholic Christianity in America will unite with the Catholic Church in common belief, common behavior, common worship."

By its particular concepts, however, the church's official activity in seeking reunion has been, in some external ways, limited.

Since the Roman Catholic Church considers itself the only true church, it insists reunion can come only by conversion to that church.

So, to date, it has taken no official, active part in national or world councils of other churches to promote unity — on the ground this might imply the "one church" was forsaking its claim to distinction from the rest.

An official instruction says "the danger" is that Catholic participation might "give the impression that they accept the principle that the Catholic Church is on equal footing with other religious bodies."

N.Y. Adoption Program

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (P)—The City of New York has undertaken a public adoption program. It will attempt to find homes for the "adoptable" among the more than 16,000 children now in foster homes and institutions. Welfare Commissioner Henry L. McCarthy said the city now spends 30 million dollars a year to care for the children.

Adm. Fahrney Says 'Saucers' Possible

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (P)—Retired Rear Adm. Delmer S. Fahrney, once head of the Navy's guided missiles program, said yesterday reliable reports indicate that "there are objects coming into our atmosphere at very high speed."

Fahrney told a news conference that, "No agency in this country or Russia is able to duplicate at this time the speeds and accelerations which radar and observers indicate these flying objects are able to achieve."

Fahrney said he never has seen a flying saucer but has talked with a number of scientists and engineers who reported seeing strange flying objects.

He added there are signs that "an intelligence" directs such objects "because of the way they fly."

"They are not entirely actuated by automatic equipment," he said. "The way they change position in formations and override each other would indicate that their motion is directed."

Prof's Grammar, It Ain't So Good

Some persons take the formal rules of grammar too seriously, says Prof. Ellsworth Barnard of Bowdoin College. Language, after all, is a tool of communication. So it can be argued that if human beings communicate satisfactorily — if they understand each other — grammar doesn't matter.

As Professor Barnard points out, nobody will mistake one's meaning if he says "Who do you work for?" or "Why don't you and me go to the game?" Everyone knows what "ain't" means, although this word is heard much less frequently than formerly. And expressions such as "It is I," or "I don't know whom I saw" are likely to sound downright priggish to many persons.

Grammar, in short, is a means, not an end. But if each person had his individual ideas of how to form plurals, past tenses and so forth, the language would be a poor tool of communication. So there is a practical, common-sense reason for having rules of grammar and sticking to them.

Without it there would be confusion unlimited, with A saying "I won't went" to mean the same thing B means when he says "I won'tt gone."

In the early evolution of language there were no formal rules of grammar, and individuals used certain rules unconsciously in efforts to communicate. This worked reasonably well in small groups, but such a variety of dialects developed that persons from adjoining areas had trouble understanding each other.

But grammar must not become an end in itself, and that's what Professor warns against.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Informants

The Boards of Education of the City of New York are having a difficult time keeping Communists out of the school system no matter how much harm the Communists may do to the students and to the country. In the instance of the Board of Higher Education, the courts have intervened to give protection and comfort to the Communists; in the instance of the Board of Education, James E. Allen, Jr., Commissioner of Education of the State of New York, has intervened on grounds that seem, at best, to be dubious.

The question hinges on providing information about others. Communists call a person who provides such informatoin an informer which has become a dirty word; the FBI refers to them as informants which cleans it up somewhat. The fact of the matter is that information on any subject must come from those who know; it cannot be picked out of the air.

Those who have the most valuable information about Communists are Communists, some of whom leave the party and are willing to tell all; others say that they have left the party but are unwilling to tell anything. In recent years, some who have professed Marxist materialism which is by rule, atheistic, insist that they may not give information about others because their religious beliefs forbid it. But when did they acquire such religious beliefs?

Commissioner Allen, speaking for the New York State Education Department, said:

"... In my judgment the (New York City) Board is most optimistic if it believes that a jury will convict on the flimsy evidence of informers. It is, of course, perhaps true that the Board, when the name is known, might be able to obtain corroborating evidence. It is also possible for the Board to call the teacher in and ask whether he or she is a Communist. The argument that the Board needs someone to name names is of no value here because the Board in any event can call in any teacher, or for that matter, all teachers, and ask if they are Communists."

How naive can one be? In 1920, it might have been assumed that such a question could be asked with the expectation of a truthful answer. If a Communist answered truthfully, he would probably be expelled from the party. Dr. Allen apparently issues obiter dicta without reading the record which abounds with perjury and contempt charges and convictions. The most valuable information any agency has received on the subject of Communists and Communism has come from so-called informers. Nevertheless, Dr. Allen says "the use of an informer is of little value."

Peter Campbell Brown, Corporation Counsel of New York City, in a statement to the court on this subject, said:

"For example, your Honor, the convictions of Hiss, the convictions of the Rosenbergs and of the 11 top echelon Communists in the lengthy trial at Foley Square is irrefutable proof that the testimony of former members of the Communist Party is not regarded as flimsy, the word of the Commissioner, but instead and contrary to that, your Honor, did persuade juries to convict and Courts to uphold these convictions."

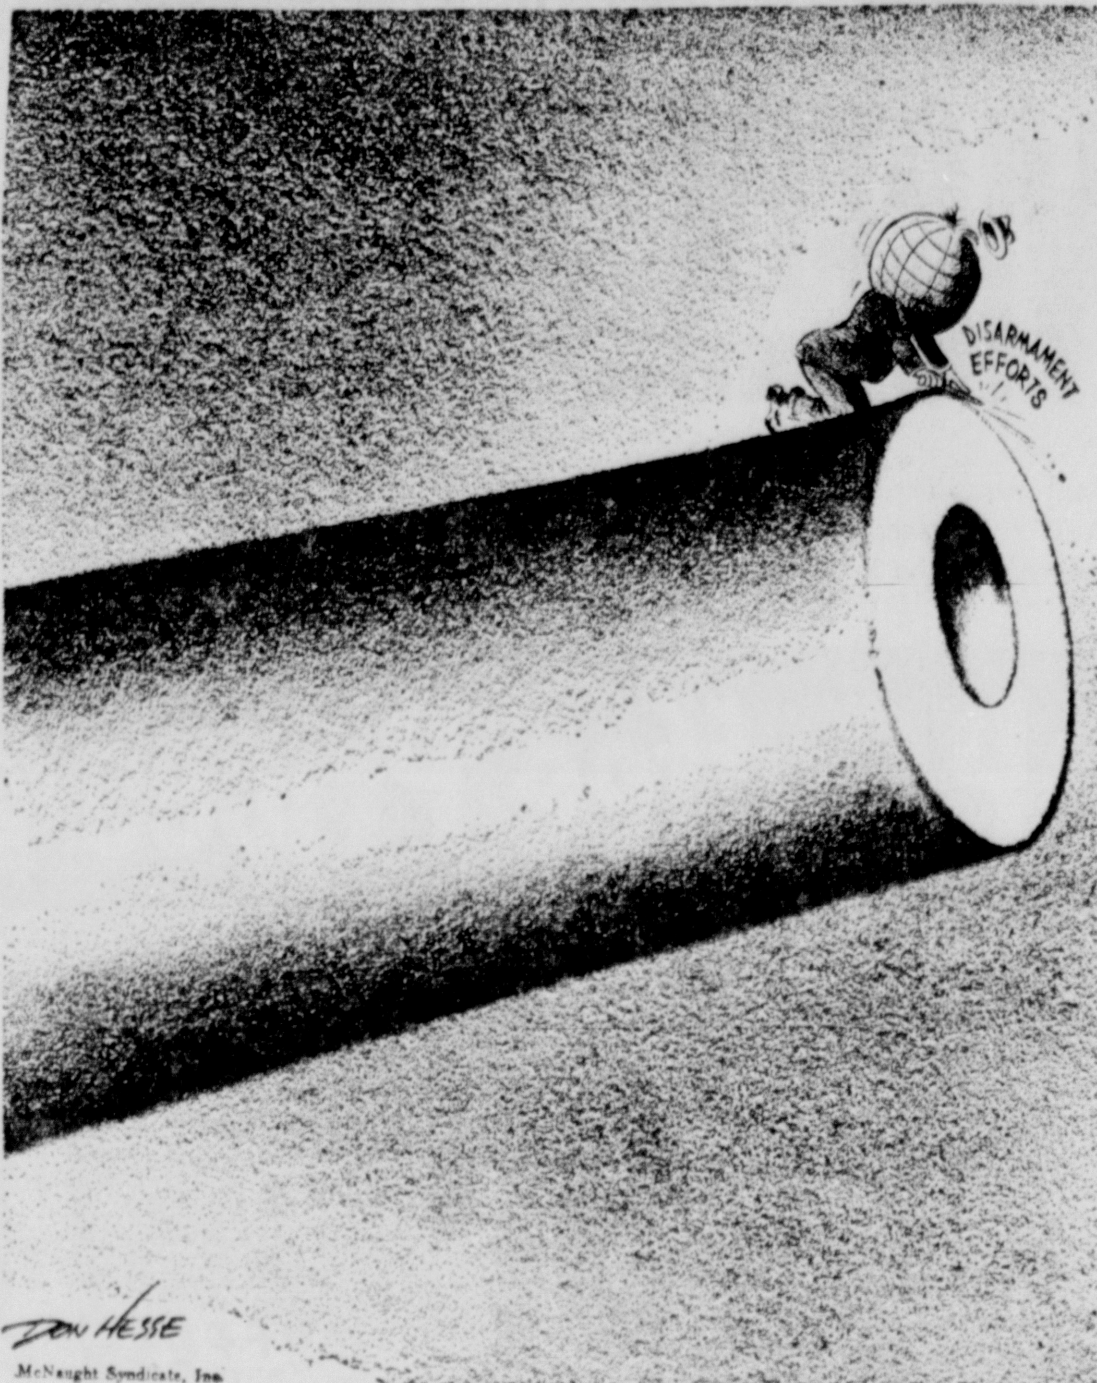

Further, Brown said:

"... as I have already indicated, 125 school personnel identified and so identified by former Communists in this kind of inquiry are no longer in the school system of New York City. The difference between identification and mere inquiry, your Honor, to this, I would point out if I may, that the method employed by the Board makes available the vital first clue in an investigation that is, the identity of the person who was, in fact, a former Communist. The proposal by the Commission that this method is unnecessary because the Board may call in any persons, deprives the Board, your Honor, of this first clue."

The emphasis on the first clue is important because obviously without it, nothing can be known although much can be guessed at. Children come home from school with curious ideas about the inferiority of the United States and one assumes that the child picked up some queer notions from a screwball, but it is impossible for a parent to know what a deep impression is being made upon the child's mind by some teacher who ridicules the tradition and folkways of this country. It is only natural for a child to assume that the teacher knows what he or she is talking about.

Press Involved In Disputes With Officialdom

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It would be most unfortunate if, when the press itself is involved in controversies with the government, only one side of the case is presented to the public. It so happens that there are two disputes going on just now.

One relates to the White House decision not to make a public ceremony when President Eisenhower next Sunday takes the oath of office for his second term inasmuch as the whole thing will be repeated on Monday for the public anyhow.

The other episode relates to the decision of the State Department in declining to issue passports to American correspondents who want to enter Red China. The Administration has sound reasons for both decisions and is supported by many precedents.

First, as to the protests of the correspondents who want to be present at the White House next Sunday, there was originally a play to admit a few persons from the press, but it became apparent that if one group — a representative or two from the writing press — were present, radio would want coverage, too, and so would the photographers. It would not stop there, because the movies and television feel they should be admitted wherever any other branch of the press is admitted. In the end it becomes a public show.

The primary reason for not having a public ceremony has been that somehow it desecrates the Sabbath to have such a display on a Sunday. The last time Inauguration Day fell on Sunday was March 4, 1917, when President Wilson took the oath of office for his second term in the President's room at the Capitol just as he finished signing bills and as the 64th Congress was adjourning at noon. Only a few friends and the Cabinet witnessed the event. No reporters or photographers or movie camera operators were admitted. The next day Mr. Wilson took the oath again on the east front of the Capitol, and the Inaugural parade was held as usual. Nobody protested then.

The press today, however, includes television, and this requires a lot of apparatus and makes every incident televised a public affair. Thus far the Senate of the United States has refused to permit any television or movie or still cameras inside the Senate Chamber while it is in session. When Senators take the oath of office, they cannot be photographed doing so. Reporters may see and write about it, but there is no show for the screen. Some committee sessions are televised, but Speaker Rayburn has refused to make a general rule to permit it all the time.

Some committees allow proceedings to be televised but witnesses have the right to object. A Federal Court has ruled that picture-taking interferes with the orderly processes of the law. The American Bar Association at its last two conventions went on record against admitting photographers and television and movies to courtroom trials. The Supreme Court of the United States bars photographers and television when it is in session, though reporters are always admitted.

There is, of course, another practical reason why the Administration doesn't want to make a show out of the Sunday oath-taking. If the entire nation saw the President on television Sunday taking the oath, it would spoil the show for Monday. Lots of time and money are expended by organizations here to arrange an Inaugural Parade and all that goes with it. To televise the Sunday ceremony could make the Monday affair a complete anticlimax. Officially the White House did not give such a reason but said merely that, if it invited the reporters to the private affair on Sunday, it would have to ask the members of the diplomatic corps, prominent officials and their friends — and there wasn't room for all these.

On the subject of letting American newsmen enter Red China with U.S. passports, the State Department argues that the press is not above the law. The "Trading With The Enemy Act" forbids the presence of Americans in countries with which the United States is engaged in hostilities. The armistice signed at Panmunjom has never been followed by a treaty of peace with Red China.

So far as the State Department is concerned, the press is a line of business. To let down the bars for one set of citizens involves a discrimination against all other American citizens who today want to visit in or trade with Red China. Whether the members of the press like it or not, the law of the land is that any American who carries money in to Red China violates the statute and can be punished. To decline to prosecute one set of violators and to apply the law to others would be discriminatory. If Congress wants to change the law or declare the United States is "at peace" with Communist China, it can do so any day. But it is the Treasury Department — not the State Department — which today has the duty of enforcing the "trading with the enemy" act.

The press is subject to law just as is any other business. The Supreme Court of the United States decided this in 1937 when it said the First Amendment to the Constitution does not immunize the press from the organization of labor unions by reporters nor from any of the regulations concerning working conditions imposed by the government with respect to all businesses. "Freedom of the press" does not, of course, include freedom to violate laws on the statute books.

Henry found that out for himself. You could tell by the model of his first jitney that Hank had everything down to a T.

Stassen Spanked On Disarmament, But His Ideas Won Out In The End

By Drew Pearson

How accurate Drew Pearson was in his prediction regarding Sir Anthony Eden is indicated in the Pearson column of January 2, 1956, a little over a year ago. Predicting for the new year on that date, Pearson said: "Sir Anthony Eden, whose health is worse than the public realizes, will take a much less active part in the British Government. The chief duties of Prime Minister will be performed by R. A. Butler, and by late 1956 or early 1957 Eden will resign."

WASHINGTON — The public doesn't realize it, but the latest American disarmament proposals were sent to the United Nations only after heated backstage bickering in Washington. The friction was chiefly between John Foster Dulles and Ike's disarmament adviser, Harold Stassen.

It partly involved the vitally important problem of trying to entice the Russians out of Hungary, Poland, and other satellite countries.

The Stassen-Dulles jockeying match has reached the point where the two men, to put it mildly, are not fond of each other.

Trouble between them reached a climax in mid-December following receipt of the last Bulgarian note to Eisenhower on disarmament. Stassen believed it offered genuine opportunities. He called a "backgrounder" — a semi-off-the-record conference in which newspapermen are given the view of high officials with no right to quote the views of those officials. Here he told newsmen the Bulgarian note for the first time accepted, in part, the Eisenhower "open skies" proposal and offered optimistic possibilities for a genuine disarmament understanding.

Newspapers next day blossomed forth with page 1 headlines. It looked as if the United States and Russia were moving toward disarmament and peace. This was in mid-December.

Next day in Paris, Secretary Dulles, reading the headlines, held a "backgrounder" of his own. He called in pet members of the press and threw down Stassen's optimism—again not for quotation.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey was with Dulles in Paris. Prompted by Dulles, he too got into the "spank Stassen" act. Privately he complained to the White House, on his return, that Stassen was interfering with Dulles' conduct of foreign affairs.

Would Russia Leave Hungary?

Essential difference between Stassen and Dulles was that Stassen wanted to explore the possibility of Russia's withdrawing from the satellite countries. He read into the Bulgarian note a possible Kremlin move for a graceful way out of the Hungarian mess.

If the Soviet leaders could sign a disarmament agreement whereby the United States pulled out of its NATO bases in Europe, Stassen figured the Russians might jump at the chance to save face and get out of Hungary, Poland, and the other satellites.

Some State Department advisers agreed with Stassen. They wanted to probe the situation further. But Dulles did not. He got his way. A curt note was sent Bulgarian that future disarmament proposals should be conducted through the United Nations.

Accordingly, the next American proposal was put before the UN this week. Ironically, it contains many of Stassen's ideas, though it didn't give Moscow any opening for a graceful withdrawal from the satellites.

Ironically, also, it goes a long way toward adopting the Adlai Stevenson proposal for banning H-bomb tests which Ike had blasted so vigorously and vociferously during the election campaign that it made the voting public believe Stevenson was incompetent to handle these problems.

Note—Stassen works harder, gives more thought to disarmament than anyone else in the Administration. He is also the most boycotted. Dulles shuns him as much as possible. Nixon, still resentful over last summer's opposition, is cold. Eisenhower still stands up for Stassen.

But the tragedy is that the problem of peace, so precious to the America people, is caught in a bitter clash of personalities. Shortly before Christmas, for instance, Stassen pleaded with Eisenhower to let him fly to Moscow for direct negotiations with the Russians on the "open skies" proposal. Eisenhower turned him down, said this should be handled through the UN. Real reason for his veto, however, was John Foster Dulles, who doesn't like to have Stassen taking the lead in disarmament.

Washington Pipeline

John Dewey, son of the famed ex-Governor of New York and two-time GOP candidate for President, is partly a chip-off-the-old-block—partly not. A student at Princeton, John has his own ideas about politics, and they don't entirely coincide with his father's.

Says John: "If Nixon is nominated in 1960 I will vote the straight Democratic ticket." (The senior Dewey, once down on Nixon, threw his weight to the Vice President for renomination last summer). . . . J. Parnell Thomas, New Jersey's ex-Congressman who went to jail for taking salary kickbacks from his secretaries, tried to settle a $21,362 income tax bill for only $100. Uncle Sam refused. He then offered $2,500, raised it to $5,000, finally offered $12,200. The Treasury remained tough, finally accepted the ex-Congressman's pledge to pay a percentage of all his income over $5,000 annually from 1955 through 1961. . . . Interesting Inaugural highlight: Banquet of the Nationalities Advisory Committee—all nationalities, but still all-American. Bandmaster Barnee Breeskin, who has played for every Inaugural Ball since 1932, is producing the spectacle. . . . George McDavitt, the notorious ex-security officer of the Small Business Committee who got into such hot water with Congress, expects to get a job through new GOP Sen. Chappy Revercomb of West Virginia. McDavitt, former chief assistant to ex-Congressman Parnell Thomas, campaigned for Revercomb, now wants to be taken care of. . . . Prettiest new secretary on Capitol Hill is the daughter of freshman Sen. John Carroll of Colorado. She really works at running her daddy's office. . . . "Lucky" Luciano, exiled to Italy, has petitioned Eisenhower to let him come back to the USA. . . . Ex-Governor Howard Pyle of Arizona is being groomed for a job in the State Department. He is now working for the White House.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

Among my Christmas cards was one from Peggy Hopkins Joyce. Also one from Tommy Manville. Suppose Peggy had finally married Tommy. Wonder how successful such a matrimonial alliance would have been. Anyway, consider the eye-catching potency of any such newspaper headline!

PSYCHOMATS

Are you a psychomat? How about your wife? The majority of females born under the sign of Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) are psychomats or so say the stargazers. In case you are not familiar with the term, it is applied to people whose minds strongly influence their bodies. As for example, a man who gets indigestion every time his mother-in-law comes to spend a weekend at his house is a psychomat. So is a fellow who gets a splitting headache when he blows a three-horse parlay. Or a woman who can't go to sleep after seeing a film starring Gregory Peck.

PLEASE NOTE

"It is a play about poverty, want, squalor, degeneracy, pitiful helplessness and grotesque tragic lusts." A very depressing description. Sounds like a play nobody would care much about seeing. Yet that is Erskine Caldwell's description of his play "Tobacco Road," which had a Broadway run of over 3,000 performances!

HORSES AND WOMEN

Are you a bachelor? Does the girl you currently have most on your mind use a holder when smoking cigarettes? If she does, she is a smart girl. Ask her to marry you before somebody beats you to it. Sixty-nine per cent of cigarettes in the United States are smoked by women. A check of the situation reveals the average woman, who does not use a holder, smokes only half of a cigaret. The rest is tossed away. A wasteful habit. So if your girl uses a holder, it indicates she is inclined to be economical. She is also contributing to the cleanliness of the community by not leaving any sloppy-looking, lipstick-smeared butts around.

SIDELIGHTS

Where in this country is the best English spoken? Answer, of course, is Boston. A Bostonian once told me her three-year-old daughter could perfectly pronounce the word phantasmagoricalising. . . . Have you a recently arrived infant in your home? Does he bang on the table with his spoon? If so, don't stop him. That's his exercise in muscular coordination. Or, so say the child rearing experts.

GREAT LOVER

A man past middle age, whose wife describes him as a great lover, has said he believes he owes much to a diet he regularly follows. For breakfast he has apple juice, cheese and boiled eggs. In consuming an egg, he eats the shell, too. So those of our feminine subscribers who are desirous of keeping their husbands in the great lover class, regardless of the passing years, might request their spouses to include the shell when consuming boiled eggs.

ASKING

Queries from clients. Q. What is the French award called the "Prix Lemon"? A. It is an award bestowed by Paris journalists on the most "uncooperative" film star. Star named is awarded his or her weight in lemons. Last year, the "Prix Lemon" award went to Ingrid Bergman. Q. What is the origin of the term "radar"? A. It is derived from the words "radio detection and ranging."

'Natural' Childbirth, Anesthetics, And Mortality

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Childbirth is painful, but whether it need be is a moot question. Most physicians take a firm stand that includes the use of analgesics and anesthetic measures, provided these supplements do not harm mother or child. This is a basic rule in obstetrics that most amateurs fail to consider when debating the subject.

Women were clamoring for painless deliveries a decade or two ago. Then someone came up with the concept that "childbirth is 'he greatest, most gratifying experience of woman, perhaps of human beings'." As a result, the mother-to-be should not be anesthetized to such an extent that she would be deprived of the privilege of participating in the blessed event.

This trend toward natural childbirth was initiated at Yale university. It is neither new nor revolutionary, because women have been giving birth the natural way since the beginning of time. The plan is based on the premise that reaction to pain varies with attitude and suggestion.

According to Dr. C. Lee Buxton, the program prepares a woman for the pain associated with delivery so that she will approach the experience not with fear but with confidence. She knows ahead of time what to expect, and long before entering the delivery room, has been made acquainted with obstetrical aids. She knows also that anesthesia will be within reach in case distress is too severe to bear.

In this respect, natural childbirth is not always an unaided delivery. Anesthetic agents are used only when necessary. During the early months of pregnancy, the expectant mother is given a series of lectures on anatomy, adaptation to pregnancy, diet, labor, delivery, and after care. This includes a tour of the delivery room to familiarize her with the facilities.

Considerable time is spent on breathing exercises and ways to relax the abdominal musculature. This is done to stress cooperation so she will be able to assist in the delivery without undue strain.

Results are encouraging. Obstetricians have found that the need for forceps is lessened and that smaller amounts of analgesics and anesthetics are used. This will reduce the death rate from anesthesia, which means a lower mortality for mother and child. The need for caesarean section, however, has not changed because there is no way to avoid this operation when the indications exist.

OVERDOSING

A.M.R. writes: I would like

By Bennett Cerf

A business man told his brand-new secretary, "I find I must take my wife to Palm Beach Tuesday so I'll have to break my appointment with Allis Chalmers in Milwaukee. Type out a note of apology, please." Back came the secretary with a letter beginning, "Miss Alice Chalmers, Milwaukee. Wis. Dear Alice: My wife is making me take her to Florida Tuesday so I'm afraid we'll have to postpone our date."

A French father, mother, and young daughter, emigrated from Burgundy when a California vineyard made the father an offer he could not resist. The young daughter insisted on bringing her radio with her. Arrived in New York, she flipped it on, and a look of wonder crossed her face. "Papa," she cried, "this radio is incredible! It's already learned to speak English perfectly!"

Westernport Council Hears Complaint

Action Promised
Charles Laughlin

WESTERNPORT — Charles J. Laughlin, complained of surface water running in the cellar of his home, at the regular meeting of Mayor Okey E. Michael and Town Commissioners Wednesday evening.

His cellar has been flooded twice in the past ten weeks. Laughlin stated. The condition has arisen from the construction of the new Bruce High School building. He stated he did not know what the solution to the trouble is but he would like to have it corrected. The cause is from the grate stopping up of the sewer line.

Mayor Michael promised Laughlin he would instruct Bert Reed, water superintendent, when the condition arises to go there to remedy the condition. In the spring the full council will make a study of the problem and order the matter corrected. Laughlin was satisfied with the Council's decision.

The town clerk, George DeWitt, was authorized to purchase the necessary supplies and laboratory equipment and chemicals for the operation of the filtration plant being completed on Westernport Hill.

Mayor Michael stated he expected the filtration plant to begin operation some time next month.

Legislature Introduces New Bills

Accomplishments
Are Negligible

CHARLESTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—With exception of introduction of new bills, the Legislature accomplished very little at an extremely brief session today.

The Senate, which was in session only seven minutes, had four bills on the preliminary first-reading stage but they were not advanced.

One of the measures is a new proposal to open relief rolls to public inspection, similar to legislation which was vetoed in 1955 by former Gov. Marland.

Senate President Bean (D-Hardy) commented that several members would not be present tomorrow and might want to be heard when the DPA bill is on amendment stage.

The House, at its brief session, moved up five bills for amendment stage tomorrow. One would raise the pay of petit jurors from the present range of $2 to $5 per day to $5-$8. The other four bills were of a local or minor nature.

Moorefield Firemen Respond To Alarms

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Moorefield volunteer firemen have been busy lads during the past week. They were called out early Tuesday morning to Kepple's Lunch to quench a blaze in the kitchen. Only minor damage resulted.

The firemen responded to an alarm at the home of George Weese Friday night and put out a wall fire in the house located across the road from the old Black Barn which burned last year. Damage was moderate.

Thursday morning the firemen were called to the residence of Miss Fannie Paskel for a flu fire. There was no damage.

Keyser Youths Win In Speech Competition

KEYSER—John Rotruck and June Smith from the Keyser Church of the Brethren Youth Fellowship took first and second place, respectively, in the district Peace and Citizenship Speech contest held Sunday at Church of the Brethren in Wiley Ford.

Rotruck spoke on the subject "Pathway For Peace." As winner, he received an engraved key and a leather-bound copy of the Bible. During the last weekend of April he will represent the First District of West Virginia in the regional contest to be held at Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va., in connection with the regional youth round table. At this time he will compete with the winners from 13 other districts in the Atlantic Coast area from Maryland to Florida.

Miss Smith, speaking on the subject, "Christian Conditions For Peace," had tied with Rotruck for first place on the preceding Sunday evening in the contest held in the local church. Should the first place contestant be unable to attend the regional contest, she would then be the representative for the First District.

The Peace and Citizenship Speech contest is sponsored jointly by the Youth Department and Brethren Service Commission of Church of the Brethren of Elgin, Ill. Following the local, district and regional contests, a national contest will be held with the winners from each of the five regions competing in connection with the Church of the Brethren's annual conference in Richmond, Va., June 18-23.

Police Apprehend Hospital Escapee

FROSTBURG — Police Officers John Conrad and James Bucklew yesterday apprehended an escapee from St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D. C., who had reached here apparently without arousing any suspicion.

The Frostburg police took her into custody at the Hotel Gunter after receiving information from a Dr. Rukenbach of the hospital staff. She had sent a wire to her sister in Chicago asking for funds to continue her trip to that city. When questioned by police she admitted her identity but contended she had been discharged and was going to visit her sister in Chicago.

Assistant Police Chief Ronald Kreider and Officer Conrad took the woman to the Allegany County Infirmary, where she will be detained until hospital attaches can arrange to pick her up and return her to the institution.

An extremely high pitched sound will cause rats to go into convulsions with a brain disturbance similar to epilepsy.

Jehovah's Witness Travels In Many States For Church

Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Eldridge, who left this area nine years ago for assignments with Jehovah's Witnesses, are now residing in Florida. They have contacted friends here to say they frequently meet many Allegany and Garrett county people who now reside in the Florida area, and they often remember their friends here.

They served congregations in Allegany County and Mineral County for 12 years and worked for a long period with Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Lockner of Lonaconing who are now missionaries in Chile, South America. The Eldridges made their home with the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer at Naves Cross Roads while in the Cumberland area.

For the past nine years they have traveled extensively in the work of the denomination, and Mr. Eldridge has served as circuit supervisor in Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and now in Florida where his circuit has over 2,200 ministers.

What's Going On In The Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 17 (P) — The teachers pay bill will finally be introduced tomorrow, backers disclosed today. It would increase teachers' salaries by $400 a year next September and $400 more a year later.

Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Assn., said the measure will be introduced simultaneously in the House and Senate.

As in 1955, when a similar bill was presented, it will be sponsored by more than 40 delegates and "eight or nine" senators, Raver said.

State financial experts say the state would have to raise an additional 11 million dollars a year for the first half of the two-step raise and an equal amount when the full amount became effective.

No "Budget Planners"

Three Baltimore legislators sponsored separate bills aimed at fly-by-night operators who prey on debt-ridden victims. Two of the three — Sen. Goodman (D-Balto 5th) and Del. McNeal (D-Balto 3d)—would prohibit "budget planning" in which a debtor agrees to pay any counselor other than a lawyer for advising him to consolidate his debts and pay them off in installments, each of which would cover part of all debts.

Better Business Bureau officials said many persons had been victimized by such "budget planners" who took their own fees out of the first few installments, then skipped.

Del. Silver (D-Balto 5th) introduced a bill which would require "budget planners" to be licensed after approval of their character and business responsibility. They would be required to post surety bonds of $5,000, license fees of $100 and to operate within rigid procedures. Violations would make them subject to maximum fines of $1,000 and one-year prison sentences.

The Kidnap Law

Del. Culotta (R-Balto 3d) introduced bills to make Maryland's kidnap law more definite and to set up a constitutional convention for revision of the State's basic laws. Culotta said the kidnap law is now too vague. His bill would make a distinction between cases in which a parent might abduct a child in a custody battle and in which the kidnapper is not a parent of the victim.

The maximum penalty for a parent kidnapping a child would be 10 years in prison. In other cases it would be death.

Culotta's constitutional convention bill is similar to one introduced by 20 delegates in 1950. It would pave the way for a referendum on whether to call a convention to revise the constitution.

The measure is certain to be opposed by rural county delegates, who hold an advantage in the numerical makeup of the General Assembly and fear that a convention would reappropriate the seats to their disadvantage.

The Lottery Again

Dels. Milanicz and Dabrowski both (D-Balto 1st) would sponsor a teachers pay raise by a state-operated lottery. They proposed the idea today in a bill which also would make money from the lottery available to "balance the budget."

The loon can dive under water probably farther than any other bird. Dives of 50 feet have been observed.

Author Will Address Rally

Rev. Craig Massey, author of the juvenile book "Indian Drums and Broken Arrows," will speak at the Tri-State Youth for Christ rally Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street.

Mr. Massey is the author of the "Kid's Adventure" series. He also writes short stories for various religious publications.

Pastor of the Independent Bible Church in Altoona, Pa., he has addressed the Youth for Christ rally on several occasions. Special vocal and instrumental selections will be presented by members of the Altoona church.

Winning the Bible quiz contest last week was Fort Hill High School, represented by Lydia Hill and Treva Silber. Lyle Trumbull, Allegany High School, was the winner of the attendance contest, with Willa Mae Hansrote. Allegany High School, as runner-up.

PSC Rules B&O May Drop Run

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 17 (P)—The Public Service Commission granted permission today to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to discontinue passenger service between Pittsburgh and Kenova.

Suspension of service will come Feb. 1, after one week notice by the railroad. After that, service will be limited to mixed passenger and freight runs between Parkersburg and Kenova.

Meanwhile, Hillis Townsend, dissenting member of the Public Service Commission in the Cumberland and Allegheny rate case, filed his formal opinion.

Townsend said it was the duty of the PSC, and not the commission's accounting staff, to determine if a company is efficiently operating its business.

The recent PSC order awarded the gas company a rate increase designed to boost annual revenue by $467,153. C. & A. has 16,500 customers in 11 counties of northern and central West Virginia.

Townsend said the difference in $764,680 and a revenue deficiency of $467,153 determined by the PSC majority is attributed to three factors. They are:

PSC use of peak month demand costs instead of peak day figures. Disallowance of costs in buying

Speaker Describes Church Brotherhood

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew was described yesterday as the "bull's eye" of the men's work in the Episcopal Church.

This description was offered by Rev. Theodore K. Exans, former national secretary of the brotherhood, as he addressed the Cumberland Kiwanis Club. He compared church men to a target. Most of the men remain on the outer fringes, only nominal churchmen. Others in toward the PSC Chairman Homer Hanna Jr. and Commissioner T. D. Kauffelt accepted cost figures compiled by the commission's accounting staff in the majority order.

Parnell Signs With Red Sox

Pirates Have Not Cut Any Salaries

(By The Associated Press)

Sal (The Barber) Maglie of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Mel Parnell of the Boston Red Sox, both of whom authored major league no-hitters last season, were among the handful of big leaguers who signed their 1957 contracts yesterday.

Maglie, a 13-game winner including his no-hit job against Philadelphia last Sept. 25, agreed to terms at a reported $30,000 salary. He will be 40 years old next April 26.

Parnell, veteran left-hander, spun his no-hitter against the Chicago White Sox July 14. He won only six other games.

The New York Giants made the most contract signing progress yesterday, corraling pitcher Pete Burnside, catcher Bob Schmidt and outfielder Bill Taylor.

Others who came to terms were catcher Sherman Lollar of the White Sox, a .293 hitter last season; first baseman Bob Hale of Baltimore and rookies Marty

Writs Being Issued For Re-Arrest Of Jake Lamotta

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17—(INS)—Numerous charges involving prostitution and conspiracy were filed today against ex-middleweight boxing champion Jake Lamotta, who was arrested last week for "encouraging and abetting" the delinquency of a 14-year-old girl.

State's Attorney Richard Gerstein said writs are also being issued for Lamotta's re-arrest on the charges, which will make the "Bronx Bull" post additional bonds. Following his arrest on Jan. 8, Lamotta was released on $6,000 bond.

Jake Denies Charges

The state's attorney said the former middleweight titleholder will probably be arraigned "within the next two weeks."

Keough of the Red Sox and Ed Charles of Milwaukee.

Meanwhile, General Manager Joe E. Brown of the Pittsburgh Pirates said no member of the club is having his salary slashed this year.

Revealing the club's 1957 payroll will come "close to $400,000," Brown said that while there have been no salary slashes, all of the players are not getting pay hikes. "I feel it isn't wise to cut a young player's salary," Brown added.

Lamotta, 35, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, conspiracy, four counts of violation of the prostitution law and a felony case charging him with procuring for prostitution.

The former boxer has denied the charges, labeling them "ridiculous" and adding "they are picking on me because I am a name."

Co-defendants in the case are Florence Balsam, 37, who allegedly introduced the young girl to Lamotta at his Miami Beach bar; Melvin M. Stoller, manager of a swank apartment where Miss tease dancer. They also were charged with prostitution and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Balsam lives, and Sherrie Beatrice Alexander, 23, of Houston, Tex., allegedly a former strip

Police began investigating the case when the 14-year-old girl was placed in youth hall after her father was charged with incest. The man later was sentenced to prison on the charge.

Miami Beach police, who turned the case over to Gerstein, labeled it one of the most "sordid" in Miami crime annals.

They said Lamotta's bar served as a headquarters for the ring, adding Lamotta and Miss Balsam would introduce the girl to "customers" at the bar and the girl would take them to Stoller's apartment house, where all but Lamotta were arrested.

Bobcats Lose First Game On Road; Jim Cave Scores 24

SHIPPENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17 — Shippensburg State Teachers College cracked the six-game winning streak of Frostburg State Teachers and handed the Maryland's their first road defeat in six games this season here tonight. The score was 61-57.

The home team forged to the front at 4-2 and stayed on top throughout. The halftime score was 23-23.

Frostburg pulled within two points of Shippensburg with ten seconds remaining but two foul goals enabled the Keystone State Teachers to finish four points in front at the final whistle.

The loss was Frostburg's third against seven victories.

The Bobcats missed the service of Dave Marple, regular center, high scorer and ace rebounder, who was out of action with an ankle injury.

Jim Cave of Frostburg was the game's high scorer with 24 points on ten field goals and 4-5 fouls. Joe Carter was runner-up with 16.

Red Roosters Want Negroes On Redskins, May Picket Meeting

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Red Rooster Sports Committee, an organization of Negro sports fans and athletes, threatened today to establish a picket line at the National Football League draft meeting at Philadelphia Jan. 31 in an effort to induce the Washington Redskins to seek Negro players.

A letter addressed to Tim Mara, "chairman of the board and owner" of the New York football Giants, asked him to intercede with Redskins President George Marshall in the interest of his securing qualified players for the Redskins, regardless of color. Tim Mara is not listed as an official of the Giants although his sons' John and Wellington, are club officers.

The Red Roosters Committee said it had been called upon by Washington groups to support their efforts to get Negro players on the Redskins, even to the extent of a boycott.

U.S. Net Officials To Discuss Sanction Of Open Tourneys

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP)—The U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. will hold its first annual meeting here tomorrow and Saturday, with discussion expected on such subjects as America's fallen court fortunes and sanction of open tourneys.

Committee meetings will occupy the attention of delegates tomorrow, with the convention proper scheduled Saturday afternoon.

Some tennis leaders have been in a stew since America was whitewashed in the Davis Cup matches by Australia last month and yielded three major titles—the national singles and doubles and the American junior—to Aussies last year.

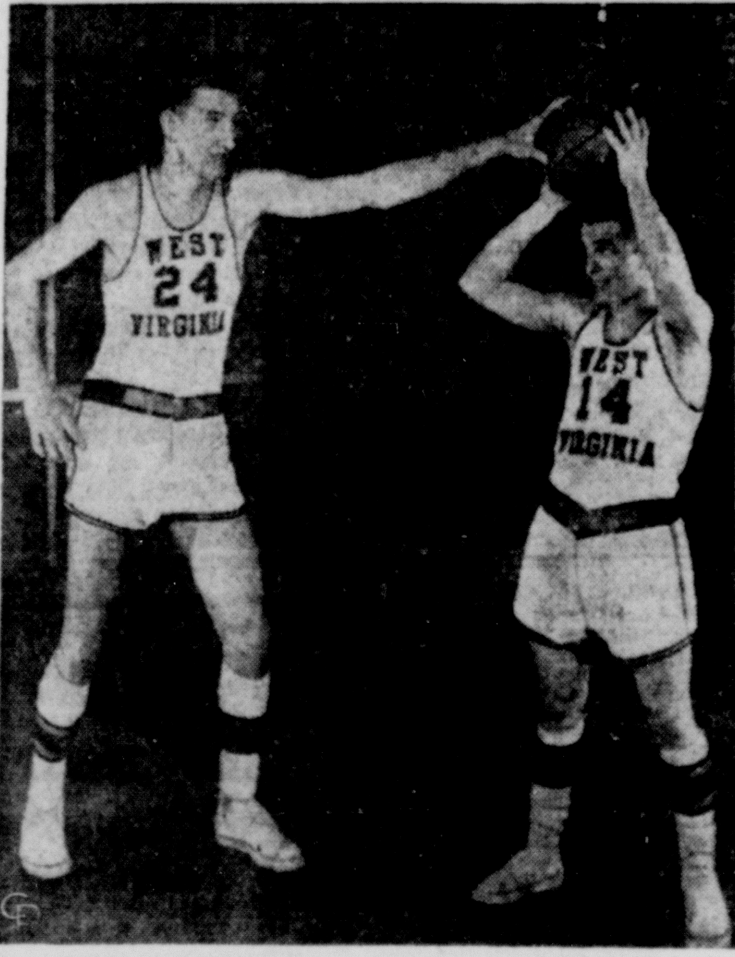

The conclave here may produce some recommendations to step up tennis development and promotion in this country, although Kenville McMann, USLTA president, thinks there is a lot of uncalled-for panic stemming from two straight Davis Cup setbacks.

NFL Attorneys Fight Appeal Of Radovich

Griddier Seeking $105,000 Damages

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—A pro football attorney said today the National Football League "may very well be destroyed" if the Supreme Court orders trial of a suit charging the league with antitrust law violations.

Bernard I. Nordlinger, Washington lawyer, told the high court that "harassment and utter chaos" might result.

NFL attorneys fought an appeal by William Radovich, a former University of Southern California and pro guard whose bid for $105,000 damages from the league and some of its clubs was dismissed in lower federal courts.

Radovich contended he was blacklisted for jumping from the Detroit Lions of the NFL to the Los Angeles Dons of the now folded All-America Conference in 1946. He charged the NFL seeks to monopolize the professional grid sport. And Maxwell Keith, his San Francisco attorney, asked the Supreme Court to order a trial on merits of the complaint.

District and circuit courts at San Francisco tossed out the suit, saying football was a team sport like baseball and thus entitled to exemption from the antitrust laws.

The Supreme Court has held that baseball is not a business of interstate character which would be subject to the Sherman Antitrust Act. But it also has ruled professional boxing and legitimate theater bookings do fall within the scope of antimonopoly laws.

The government joined Radovich in his appeal to argue that pro football is covered, that Radovich clearly charged violations and that the case should go to trial.

Marshall E. Leahy of San Francisco, another NFL attorney, said football claims no general exemption from such legislation. Nor, he added, does football believe that baseball has such an exemption.

But Leahy contended that none of the offenses charged by Radovich are forbidden by antitrust laws. For support, he cited two Supreme Court rulings on baseball.

Radovich, now operating a retail grocery store in North Hollywood, had attacked the NFL's "reserve" clause and what he described as a blacklist. The reserve clause binds a player to a club, which contains the right to trade him.

Nordlinger, defending the league setup, called Radovich an "embittered, disgruntled" player.

Eddie Brown of the Chicago Bears completed 96 passes in 168 attempts for 1,667 yards to lead the National Football League in 1956. Eleven of his passes were good for touchdowns.

Hialeah, Miami's beautiful race track, is opened to the public all year. Last year 503,000 sightseers visited the track during non-racing days.

VICTIM OF QUICK WHISTLE

DETAINED in a Philadelphia airlines ticket office as a "lone wolf" bandit long sought in the Quaker city, Tommie McDonald, All-American back at Oklahoma, quickly explained his identity but not before he had a gun trained on his back by a detective. Tommie is shown above along with a sketch made by a police artist of the long-sought bandit. (International)

Four Get 68s In Caliente First Round

Weetman Posts 29 For Last 9 Holes

TIJUANA, Mexico, Jan. 17 (AP)—England's Harry Weetman, staging a remarkable comeback that produced a seven-under par 29 for the last nine holes, propelled himself into a four-way tie late today in the first round of the $15,000 Caliente Open Golf Tournament.

The 35-year-old Ryder Cup star from London toured the 7,200-yard par 36-36—72 Tijuana Country Club in 39-29—68.

It gave him a deadlock for the round with Mike Souchak, the 1956 winner of the Caliente event. Julius Boros and Len Kennett of Camp Pendleton, Calif., Marine Base.

Souchak and Boros had 35-33—68's and Kennett, former University of Southern California golf team captain, did it in 36-32—68.

Souchak, Boros and Kennett had no sensations to match Weetman's freak round, and the same was true of the play of five professionals tied at 69.

The four were Doug Ford, Al Besselink, Bob Inman, Bill Bisdorf of San Diego, and local pro Larry Mowry.

Weetman is noted as a long hitter but admittedly weak in putting. His irons were the big part of his game today as he started a string of six successive birdies on the 10th hole.

Upsets Feature Mt. City Games

Farrady, Orr's Top Kroll's, Lonaconing

FROSTBURG, Jan. 17 — Upsets marked games in the Mountain City Basketball League tonight when the Lonaconing Independents and Kroll's Confectionery went down to defeat for the first time this season on the Frostburg State Teachers College court.

The Independents saw their four-game victory string snapped by Orr's Confectionery of Midland, 33-31 while Farrady's Confectionery handed Kroll's its first loss in four outings, 37-39.

Davis of Orr's collected 15 points and Lupis headed Lonaconing with 31 markers. Hansel and Thomas garnered 1 and 12 markers for Farrady's and Stoops and Shertzer with 16 and 10 were high for Kroll's.

Decathlon Wins Race

Hartack Is Aboard Victor At Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17 (AP)—River Divide Farm's mighty Decathlon, a true sprint champion, carried the heaviest weight in Hialeah history to an easy victory today in the famed Flamingo Park's $27,500 Inaugural Handicap.

Jockey Willie Hartack got the tremendous 4-year-old bay colt out of the gate first, a jump ahead of 1 Appeal and Decathlon did the rest, winning by a length and three quarters.

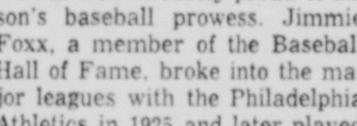

For the second straight year, Spring Hill Farm's 1 Appeal was second, a length and a half in front of Eiffel Blue, a field horse who beat out highly-rated Ambergis by a head for show money.

Given a mart ride by Hartack, the 1956 sprint champion wasn't fazed by the 135 pounds he was forced to carry, and covered the six furlongs in the good time of 1:09 2-5. No horse ever had won a Hialeah stakes carrying more than 130 pounds, and no horse ever before had been assigned as much as 135.

Decathlon, who has won his last four starts was a 4-5 favorite and rewarded his backers with $3.30, $3.20 and $2.50 at the $2 mutuels.

Jim Fitzsimmons, trainer of Nashua and Bold Ruler, rates Florida-bred King Hairan as the colt to beat for 3-year-old honors in 1957.

ACC Coaches Choose Tourney To Decide Champion

Millikan Says Season Victor Earns Crown

Terp Coach Favors Earlier Tourney; Seven Ask Change

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 17 (P)—Seven of the eight basketball coaches of the Atlantic Coast Conference want a change in the present method of deciding a conference cage champion.

The title now is decided in a sudden death tournament, held in early March every year in Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh. That's the home court of North Carolina State College's Wolfpack.

Cail System Unfair

A poll of coaches disclosed that the vast majority of the coaches consider the present system unfair because a team may go unbeaten through the regular system, then lose the crown in a single loss in the tournament.

The results of its poll of coaches were announced today by the Charlotte News.

The lone supporter of the system now in vogue is Everett Case, coach of N.C. State.

One of the most vociferous opponents of the plan is Frank McGuire, skipper of the currently undefeated University of North Carolina Tar Heels.

$60,000 Slot Machine

One of the polled coaches described the present plan as the "$60,000 slot machine." That's the approximate amount of money the conference takes in from the tournament each year. This is the ACC's biggest lump of income.

Part of it supports minor sports. Part supports the conference commissioner's office at Greensboro.

In the poll coaches were asked: "Would you personally favor deciding the league champion by regular season play rather than the present tournament?"

Wants Tourney Retained

Bud Millikan, University of Maryland coach, had this to say: "It has been my feeling since the inception of the Atlantic Coast Conference that the true champion is the winner of regular season play . . . don't do away with (the tournament). Move the tournament to the Christmas holidays (the period in which the Dixie Classic now is played at Reynolds Coliseum), then start league play after Jan. 1. But regardless, I am definitely in favor of our National Collegiate Athletic Assn. representative being the true winner of our conference."

Jones And Smallwood Fight At Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17 (P)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who wants another crack at middleweight champion Gene Fullmer, meets Hardy Smallwood in a 10-round bout at the Cleveland Public Music Hall tomorrow night.

Jones lost a decision to Fullmer in Cleveland last April, but still thinks he held his own.

The Yonkers, N.Y. boxer is strongly favored over Smallwood of Brooklyn. Smallwood has lost four in a row, and has a record of 18-8-2. Jones is 41-17-3.

Tomorrow's fight will be carried over NBC radio and television at 10 p.m. EST.

Connie Satisfied

BALTIMORE, Jan. 17 (P)—Connie Johnson, right-handed pitcher who came to the Baltimore Orioles from the Chicago White Sox last May in a multi-player deal, has returned his contract signed, the Orioles announced today.

Johnson, who developed into a top performer during the latter part of the season, came to Baltimore with Bob Nieman, George Kell and Mike Fornieles in exchange for Jim Wilson and Dave Philley.

Johnson's record was nine wins and 1 losses.

Contract terms were not announced.

Fay Crocker Leads

TAMPA Fla., Jan. 17 (P)—Fay Crocker took a three stroke lead in the first round of the $50,000 Tampa Women's Open Golf Tournament today.

Miss Crocker, putting to perfection, was one under par with a 37-35-72. The South American golfer was the only player in the field of 120 to better par 73 for the tricky 6,066-yard Palma Ceia course.

Tied for second at 75 were four players — defending champion Betsy Rawls, Louise Suggs and Patty Berg, both former winners here, and Gloria Armstrong.

Tubbs To Wed

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 17 (P)—Jerry Tubbs, All-America football player from the University of Oklahoma, will be married Jan. 26 to his hometown sweetheart, Marlene Hamilton of Breckenridge, Tex., it was learned here today.

Tubbs will be the second Oklahoma All-America football player to wed this month. Tommy McDonald and Ann Campbell, OU beauty queen from Oklahoma City, will be married Jan. 22 in Oklahoma City.

You, too, can have a young throat if you keep your chin up.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A Young Throatline

A girl is never too young to learn to keep her chin up. We don't mean being brave nor acting like a snob. But good posture that keeps the neck (that barometer of old age) in firm condition.

Too many care for their faces and neglect their necks. What happens? Their throats appear five years older than their faces. The clever woman will guard against an aging neckline by caring for her throat early in life. She can avoid that fullness of chin (often you see this on women in their early twenties!) or get rid of it by holding the head higher, lifting the chin just a little, and stretching the back of the neck and doing some facial gymnastics. Naturally, the older woman needs more stimulation for the muscles to tone them up. To keep the chin and throat firm I picked up this fine exercise from a Powers Girl. She lifts her head back slightly, holding a finger under the chin—then stretches the neck up—lifts chin forward and over the finger. She does this 5 times, and the older woman can work up until she does it at least a dozen times a day.

This exercise will not only help to eliminate a double chin, it will ease tension. Drop head forward on chest. Then, leading with the chin, turn your head slowly to one shoulder, rolling head up and around until chin touches the shoulder, then back to front again. Keep the chin leading at all times, trying not to drop your head too far forward and make a very slow circle. Circle right to left 4 or 5 times—left to right 4 or 5 times. If you sit at an office desk all day, do this exercise each day. Just be sure the people around you know what you are up to.

Tomorrow—Model material.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17 (INS) — I am very glad to say that my friend Jim Richardson's book, "For the Life of Me," has been sold to John Payne and Ed Beloin for a motion picture.

Jim, who is city editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, has written a powerful newspaper story. But more than just a newspaper saga, it's the dramatic tale of a man's rehabilitation. Jim went through a bad time, hit bottom, and it's to his credit that he came back to the important job he now holds and has held for many years.

The price paid is $15,000, and the deal was arranged by Jimmy McHugh, Jr. John, who did such a good job in "The Big Boss" and for TV in "The Big Slide," is playing Richardson, and Beloin is writing the adaptation and co-producing with Payne.

The last time I saw Janet Leigh she told me she was getting ready to return to motion pictures, and this week it happened. She'll co-star with Charlton Heston in "The Badge of Evil," which Orson Welles will direct and Albert Zugsmith produce.

Janet was all set to go east with Tony Curtis for the premiere of "Sweet Smell of Success" when the offer came from Universal-International and she accepted. She hasn't made a picture since last June when she took time out to have Kelly Lee, her baby daughter, and since that time she has been busy taking care of the young lady.

I can't think of anyone who would be better as the heroine of the French author's Francoise Sagon's best seller "A Certain Smile" than Audrey Hepburn—and producer Henry Ephron thinks so, too.

For the last three days Henry's been on the phone from his office at 20th, to Audrey in New York, telling her of the newest developments on the script being written by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett. They won many honors for their Broadway hit, "The Diary of Anne Frank."

Both the book and the author have had plenty of publicity, which gives an added zest to the offer, which I'll bet Audrey will accept.

Even Bing Crosby, who is accustomed to the sound of big money, is knocked cold by the offer from a syndicate backing the Palace Theatre in New York of $400,000 (yes, you're reading right) for four weeks of personal appearances at the famed old two-day vaudeville house! Do I need to add that this is the most fabulous cash bid ever made to anyone in show business and it makes me dizzy just to type all those ciphers.

On the set of "Man on Fire" at MGM, Bing said he hadn't made up his mind, "but you don't turn down a thing like that without sleeping on it."

Judy Garland just closed at the Palace and Jerry Lewis opens there after playing a week's return engagement at the Sands in Las Vegas starting Monday.

Assessing Unit At Annapolis

The staff of the Allegany County Assessing Department Wednesday went to Annapolis to confer with State Sen. Charles M. See and the county's six delegates in regard to a bill that would affect the department.

Sen. See said they explained House Bill 1 which would change the salaries of assessors in all counties. It would require the state to pay 60 per cent of the wages and the counties, 40 per cent. Currently it is on a 50-50 basis.

Sen. See observed that this bill would save Allegany County from $1,400 to $1,800 a year.

Appearing before the legislators were Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments, and assessors David Kirk, Edward Eichner and Francis J. Plummer.

Carl Schroeder, who did such a fine job on Modern Screen, has joined Redbook as their advertising and promotion contact on the west coast.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

The bidding:

South West North East
1 spade Pass 5 clubs Pass
2 hearts Pass 2 spades Pass
3 diamonds Pass 3 spades Pass
Pass Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ten of hearts.

North and South bid their cards to the hilt in contracting for a grand slam today. However, South's inadequate knowledge of the percentage tables resulted in a net loss of over 2,000 points in the play of the hand.

The opening lead was the ten of hearts. Declarer refused to finesse, winning the first trick with the ace. Concluding that his best chance was to establish dummy's clubs, he immediately went to work on that suit, trusting that the outstanding six cards would be divided three and three. When this hope failed to materialize, the contract landed on the rocks.

Declarer cursed his hard luck, tho he might have bewailed his faulty technique. He had a much better prospect of fulfillment on another line of play. That the six outstanding clubs would probably not break three and three should have been taken into consideration.

There was the further thought that even if the clubs did break, he would lose the hand if either opponent had four spades, because if the clubs were ruffed, that opponent would have more trumps than himself.

The best plan was to try to cash all eight trumps separately, which together with three diamond tricks and two other aces would count to 13. The proper procedure was to play the ace, king, and jack of diamonds, discarding dummy's two hearts. A small heart is now ruffed with the five of spades. The ace of clubs is followed by another club ruffed by the deuce of spades, and now it is impossible to lose any tricks because the danger of an overruff has been overcome. By cross-ruffing the hearts and clubs, declarer makes the rest of the tricks.

When this line of play was pointed out to the actual player, he said he disliked to cash the ace, king, and jack of diamonds for fear someone would ruff. In order for him to be justified in his apprehensions the outstanding nine diamonds would have to be divided seven and two, an extremely remote holding. The best percentage play was really quite simple.

Budget Stirs Row In Democrat Ranks

Will Be Submitted Today

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 17 (P)—Democratic legislators had themselves in a dither today over the impending arrival of the proposed budget from Republican Gov. McKeldin.

It will be submitted to them tomorrow morning and many of the Democrats were hot and bothered over what to do with it.

Recreation Facilities Asked For This Area

CIO Seeks Fund To Finance Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 17 (P)—Legislators from Maryland's western counties discussed ways today of increasing recreational facilities in their area.

Comprehensive proposals by the Maryland Industrial Union Council were the basis of the meeting, but the Allegany, Washington and Garrett County lawmakers also questioned the heads of several State departments.

I. Alvin Parsaw, chairman of the State Planning Commission, said one of the main needs is establishment of a permanent agency to "sell" the area's facilities.

Asks Industry Drive
Sen. Friend (R-Garrett) agreed in part, but said he felt more money should be spent in advertising for industry to come to Western Maryland.

Ernest Vaughn, director of the Game and Inland Fish Department, told the legislators he isn't against the federal government proposal to build a road on the C & O Canal and make a national park along it.

However, he said he wants to try to have the government agree to permit hunting in the area. Otherwise, Vaughn said, the hunting space in Western Maryland will be reduced by 50 per cent.

He said there is a "grand opportunity" to increase public recreational facilities in Allegany County and promised help of his department.

Suggests Projects
The Maryland Industrial Union Council has recommended that surplus revenue of one million dollars be spent the next year for financing its plan.

"We feel that only half a job has been done in providing public conveniences in the State parks," the council said in its report.

Among the things proposed by the council are restoration of the C & O Canal for boating, development of Green Ridge State Park and a new recreational area in Allegany County, near Paw Paw, W. Va.

In Washington County, it urges development of the Licking Creek area and Fort Frederick State Park.

Chest Campaign Leaders Will Be Honored

Leaders of the 1956-57 Cumberland Community Chest campaign will be honored today at 6:30 p. m. at a Dutch treat dinner in Central YMCA.

To be honored are Lewis J. Ort, general chairman; Dr. Lillian C. Compton, Residential chairman; Edward L. Ewald and Woodward D. Pealer, co-chairman of the Classified division, and Harold D. Barber, Sales Army chairman.

About 60 reservations for the dinner had been made late yesterday afternoon. Additional reservations will be taken at Chest headquarters until noon.

The 30th annual meeting of the Cumberland Community Chest will follow at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Charles L. Kopp, president, will preside. Business will include annual reports by Mrs. Lucile Roedege, secretary, and Simon Rosenbaum II, treasurer.

The election of three directors will follow. Nominees are Henry K. Duke, Oscar Lashley Jr., Duard H. Little, Hudson Nix, Lewis J. Ort and C. William Seasholtz.

Business Zone Extension Asked Near Boulevard

Urge Continuation Of Fourth Street

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday recommended the enlargement of the present business zone lying north of the Industrial Boulevard segment of the Cumberland Thruway.

The area to be rezoned for business purposes would begin at the easterly side of Wempe Drive and include all and lying south of Fourth and Church Street extended to the easterly side of White Oaks Avenue and then north to Oldtown Road.

It is bounded on the south by the present business district lying north of the Industrial Boulevard.

The commission also recommended, at the suggestion of Mayor Roy W. Eves, who is an ex-officio member, that plans be made by the City to extend Fourth Street from Wempe Drive to South Street, provide a link between Maple and New Hampshire and that Church Street be extended east to intersect with White Oaks Avenue—and that the entire route be renamed Fourth Street.

W. Earle Cobey, local attorney, appeared before the commission headed by James Alfred Aviret to outline the wishes of the C & P Telephone Company to erect modern warehouse facilities between Quebec Avenue and Fourth Street.

Mr. Cobey explained the company now rents warehouse and storage facilities at Lexington and Elder Streets but wants to construct new facilities inside the city limits.

He said the area to be rezoned would provide additional land zoned for business inside the city limits and that the change in classification could be accomplished now without adversely affecting residential properties.

The recommendations will be submitted to the Mayor and Council after they are drafted by Anthony Saeli, secretary.

Irving Holland Dies At 80

Irving Thomas Holland, 80, of 101 Washington Street, died yesterday afternoon at Memorial Hospital. He had been a patient there for two days.

Born June 2, 1876 at St. Joseph, Mo., he was a son of the late Henry and Jane (Bell) Holland. Mr. Holland for many years operated the Holland Furniture Store which was located on Baltimore Street next to the First National Bank. In later years he operated the Holland Esso service station on North Mechanic Street, until his retirement.

A veteran of the Spanish-American War, he was a charter member of Fort Cumberland Lodge 211, AF and AM, and was a 32d degree Mason.

He is survived by his widow, Rose M. (Tatroe) Holland; a daughter, Mrs. W. Alfred Van Ormer, city, and three grandchildren.

The body will remain at the Stein Funeral Home where a service will be conducted Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Fort Cumberland Lodge 211 will conduct graveside services.

Hancock Volunteer Fire Company answered the alarm with one truck and 12 firemen but said the house was completely aflame on their arrival. The building was located about five miles off U.S. Route 40, approximately 17 miles west of Hancock.

Although hampered somewhat by bitter cold, firemen battled to extinguish the blaze until after 11 p.m. but were unable to save the house or a nearby smokehouse.

Neighbors helped the family save some furniture.

Below Zero Expected In Queen City

A bitter cold temperature reading of five below zero—a record low in Cumberland for the past five years—was expected to go by the wayside early this morning as the weatherman promised temperatures from zero to 10 below in the Queen City and Western Maryland.

The temperature is expected to "warm up" to about 20 degrees above this afternoon. Some snow is promised for some sections of the Tri-State area.

Last night the temperatures were hovering around zero in Oakland and area. However, Ralph E. Weber, official weather observer in Oakland, said he did not expect the temperature to drop as low as yesterday morning when it dipped to 11 below.

No New Snow

He said the wind was "right lively" last night and had shifted to the southwest. No new snow was reported, although a sprinkling fell on Wednesday night.

A check with Maryland State Police at LaVale disclosed that highways in the Garrett County area were 10 to 50 per cent clear and the remainder well-cindered.

U.S. Route 40 east of Cumberland was termed as "pretty well clear" and cindered. On Big Savage Mountain last night about 10 o'clock a temperature reading of four above was reported.

In Cumberland at 8:30 p. m. an official reading of 9 above was recorded and the mercury was moving slowly zeroward.

However, Robert R. Golden, local weather observer at Constitution Park, said he did not expect the mercury to go too far below the zero mark.

2 Degrees On Lake

A two-above-zero reading was recorded along the Marsh Mountain Ski Trail near Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County. This was about 7 p. m. yesterday.

As far as the general public in the area was concerned last night, it was plenty cold and it was the chief topic of conversation.

Tri-Towns Talk About Disposal Of Their Waste

The mayors and councilmen of the Tri-Towns—Piedmont, Luke and Westernport—met last night at the Westernport council chamber to explore some of the questions concerning sewage disposal for the three communities.

It has been suggested that the Tri-Towns might utilize the waste treatment plant which the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company is planning in conjunction with its $50 million expansion program.

Possible legislation to carry out this program was considered, according to Earl E. Manges, who is acting as attorney to the towns in this matter.

Plans are being formulated to meet with the County Delegation in Annapolis sometime soon, but Mr. Manges said the date is not yet definite.

Largest Crowd Yet Skates At Pond In Park

The "largest crowd yet" turned out last night at the duck pond in Constitution Park to enjoy ice skating, according to Robert R. Golden, park superintendent. Two fires had been built to provide warmth.

And if the weather continues as it is, which is expected, then there should be quite a few more nights for skating at the park. Enthusiasts of the sport have been going to the park since Monday when the pond was flooded for ice skating.

Skaters are asked not to get on the pond before 7 p. m. in order to give the water a chance to freeze smoothly. Gwynn Fletcher, city recreation director, said yesterday.

$450 Burglary Cleared Up By City Police

A breaking and entering and larceny involving some $450 in cash taken from a local resident last September was cleared up by City Police last night.

The money was taken on the night of September 26 from Bernard McGreevy, who lives at 10 State Street. Two 15-year-old boys who live on West Side admitted to police they took the money, and signed statements to that effect.

City Police Detective Joseph H. Sticher who is continuing an investigation, said last night that after questioning one of the boys for about 15 minutes, the lad implicated another boy.

Sticher said the boys pushed in double doors on the warehouse belonging to McGreevy in such a manner that one of the boys was able to squeeze through.

They attempted to break a glass in an interior door with a shoe to get to an office, but when they were unable to do so one of them smashed the glass with his fist, injuring one of his knuckles.

An initial investigation disclosed blood on the glass and on the floor. Fingerprints were taken at the time of the breaking and entering.

Meanwhile the money has been spent by the two boys who said they purchased candy, went to movies and skating. They said they hid the money along the B&C tracks and when they needed it would go back to the hiding place and get as much as they wanted.

They will be taken to Juvenile Court on Saturday for a hearing, Detective Sticher said.

Wage Increase To Be Sought At Amcelle

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, this week voted to reopen its contract and seek a "substantial" wage increase at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Melvin Harris, president, said the local, at largely attended meetings Wednesday night and yesterday morning, voted to reopen its collective bargaining agreement with the Celanese Corporation.

He said the local will seek a "substantial" wage increase, plus other contract changes including increased vacation percentages, during the contract negotiations.

Union officials, he said, believe a substantial wage increase is forthcoming on the basis of the company's increase in net sales and gains.

The local received a 10-cent increase, bringing average wages to the $1.79 mark, and a number of contract changes in the agreement negotiated last April. This pact is due to expire on April 8.

Mr. Harris said the local will notify the company of its desire to modify the contract on or before February 8. Negotiations must get underway within 10 days of the receipt of such a notice from either party to the pact.

A report on the Celanese Advisory Council, held Monday in Charlotte, N. C., was presented at the meetings by Harris and Charles F. Davis, secretary, who represented Local 1874 at the contract strategy session.

Mr. Kimble will speak on "Employment Security" and will conduct a question and answer period following his talk.

He will be introduced by Nelson W. Russler, a past president, now serving as chairman of the Entertainment committee.

Since April 25, 1955, Mr. Kimble has been chairman of the ESB, a post he took over at the request of Governor McKeldin after resigning from the Maryland Senate, where he represented Allegany County and served as minority leader.

Mr. Russler said visitors will be welcomed at the meeting, but must secure reservations through any officer or director of the association by February 11.

The speaker for the March 11 meeting will be Gwynn Fletcher, city recreation director, Mr. Russler added.

Two Are Hurt Here As Auto, Truck Collide

Accident Occurs On Henderson Ave.

Two local youths were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon with injuries sustained when the car in which they were riding rammed head-on into a loaded coal truck on Henderson Avenue near the U.S. Route 40 bypass.

In "fair" condition at the hospital are James Edward Lindner, 16, of RD 3, Bedford Road, who told police he was the driver of the car, and Frank Valentine, 17, of 342 Dorn Avenue, a passenger in the vehicle.

Attaches said Valentine, who was more seriously hurt, sustained a severe head injury, while Lindner was reported to have suffered a left knee laceration and bruises. X-rays have been taken, attaches said.

City Police Detective Lt. James E. Van said the auto skidded about 40 feet before ramming into the front end of the coal truck operated by Raymond Paul Kammauff, RD 1, Frostburg, who apparently was uninjured.

Lt. Van said the truck was traveling south on the avenue and the car came out of the bypass onto the avenue and traveled to the extreme left of the highway hitting the truck head-on.

The car was owned by the Lincoln-Mercury Garage, Van said. When the auto caught fire as a result of the crash two employees of a nearby service station obtained an extinguisher and quenched the blaze.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker who happened on the scene said that an ambulance from Pennsylvania which apparently had taken a patient to the hospital came by at the time of the accident and took one of the victims to the hospital.

The other boy was removed to the hospital in an ambulance of the Astor Cab Company. City police received a call about 3:05 p. m. Investigating with Lt. Van are Officers Walter Crabtree and Fred Daum.
